

GOOD ORATORS COMING HERE TO SPEAK FOR REPUBLICANS

MEETING ON OCTOBER 29

An Enthusiastic Rally of Stalwart Republicans Is Assured.

SPEAKERS FOR THE COUNTY

Offered By the State Committee. Wellsville Voters Will Be Addressed By Congressman G. W. Prince, of Illinois, Nov. 1.

From a Staff Correspondent.

Columbus, Oct. 16.—Yesterday afternoon Senator Patterson, in charge of the speakers' bureau at Republican headquarters, wired Secretary J. S. McNutt, of the Columbiana county Republican committee, that ex-Governor Daniel H. Hastings, of Pennsylvania; Solicitor General Richards, whose present address is Washington, D. C., and Congressman G. W. Prince, of Galesburg, Ill., were available for meetings in Columbiana county. He thought that these speakers would be acceptable and that Hastings and Richards might speak at East Liverpool. It is likely that the arrangements for the county's meetings will be perfected at once. Responsive to a request from Chairman Agner, of the Stark county committee, Senator Patterson said efforts would be made to assign Senator Fairbanks, of Indiana, to a meeting at Canton.

Upon the receipt of the telegram from state headquarters with reference to speakers for Columbiana county, Secretary McNutt at once placed the list at the disposal of the East Liverpool city committee for their consideration.

At the last meeting of the committee it had been determined to have none but first-class men to address what meetings should be arranged for this city, and the local committee did not hesitate to make this fact clear to both the county and state headquarters. It can be readily seen, therefore, that some care was exercised in the selections for the county.

The committee on speakers, whose duty it was to secure what speakers should be deemed necessary and also to secure open dates at the Grand opera house, had no hesitancy in choosing ex-Governor Daniel H. Hastings, of Pennsylvania. The gentleman has a reputation as an orator, extending throughout the entire country, and the local committee and public generally are to be congratulated upon their good fortune in being permitted to hear him.

Colonel Hoyt, of Cleveland, a campaigner of many years' experience, will also be present to assist Governor Hastings, and everything points to a most successful opening of the campaign in East Liverpool.

Tuesday, Oct. 29, has been decided upon as the date for the meeting, and it being but one week previous to the election there will doubtless be no lack of enthusiasm.

Word was received in the city this afternoon that Wellsville Republicans had succeeded in securing Congressman G. W. Price, of Illinois, for a meeting there on the evening of November 1.

The meeting will be held in Wellsville city hall and arrangements are being made by East Liverpool Republicans to attend. Congressman Price spoke here last fall in the wigwam and made an excellent impression.

THIRTY QUAIL

Captured in Pennsylvania By a Trio of Local Hunters.

Frank O'Hanlon, Joe Kinney and William Bloor have returned from a hunting trip in Pennsylvania. They succeeded in bagging 50 quail.

ARRESTED IN VIRGINIA

Clem King, a Negro, Accused of Stealing Lap Robes, Is Apprehended.

Chief Thompson received a telegram last night from the authorities at Danville, Va., stating that the negro, Clem King, who left this city several days ago and who is thought to have taken with him five lap robes which belonged to Harrison Rhinehart, is under arrest in that city.

King was employed as a laborer by Rhinehart, but left for his home with a party of other colored men. The robes were missed the next day and King was suspected. The message to Chief Thompson states that King denies his guilt. A reply was sent by Thompson this morning to the Danville chief, asking that a search be made for the robes, and that if they were not found to release the man.

Will Entertain Tonight.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bright will entertain a few friends at their home this evening in honor of their guest, Miss Hazel Harris.

DIED ON A TRAIN

CHARLES KOS EXPIRED GOING TO HOSPITAL.

He Worked in a Wagon Shop And Was Taken Ill Suddenly.

Charles Kos, between 35 and 40 years of age, employed as a wood worker at Brozka's shop, died on the train this afternoon while being taken to a Pittsburg hospital. He was taken suddenly ill on Sunday, with some trouble of the intestines, and it was thought best to take him to a hospital. The body will be brought back this afternoon.

Kos was a member of the Woodmen of the World.

Will of the Late J. Twing Brooks So Disposes of His Property.

Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—The will of the late Joshua Twing Brooks, of Salem, was admitted to probate today. It was written April 13, 1901, and is in part as follows:

"In contemplation other arrangements which I have in view for my four children, Charles Twing Brooks, Elizabeth Emeny, Judith Twing Brooks and Mary Augusta Brooks, I hereby give to my wife, Anna M. Brooks, all my property, real, personal and mixed."

The will appoints Mrs. Brooks executor without bond and asks the probate court not to require any preliminaries or final account to be filed. It also asks that no inventory or appraisement be required. This request, according to law, cannot be complied with, and the court appointed W. H. Mullins, R. V. Hampson and W. F. Deming as appraisers.

Nothing is said in the will throwing any light on the "other arrangements" referred to in connection with the four children.

The will was witnessed by Ashbel and Wm. B. Carey.

THE REPTILE KILLED

Copperhead Which Dr. Ogden Caught Manifested a Surly Disposition.

The copperhead snake that was captured by Dr. Ogden three weeks ago near Hookstown and put on display in a glass jar at an uptown pharmacy, has been chloroformed.

It was too gruesome a pet to have around. The snake exhibited a surly disposition by refusing to eat, but gave no indication of wasting away physically. Proprietor and clerks felt much easier when the reptile was dispatched.

OUT OF JAIL

Sentences of Smith McDole And Andrew McCormick Have Expired.

Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Smith McDole, of East Liverpool, and Andrew McCormick, of Wellsville, were released from jail today, having served out the sentences imposed by the court. McDole served 10 days for selling liquor to a minor, and McCormick the same sentence for unhitching and driving a horse.

MARITAL VOWS

Said to Have Been Taken By Well Known Couple of the Southside.

It was reported today that D. J. Stewart and Mrs. Rose Kinney, both residing on farms near Chester, were married last night in this city.

PROPOSITIONS GO BEGGING

Two New Industries, Silk and Glass Plant, Want to Come Here.

PROMOTERS IN EARNEST

No Board of Trade to Entertain the Proposals, And They Are to Be Turned Over to Wellsville—Secretary Travis' Opinion.

Attorney G. Y. Travis, erstwhile secretary of the deceased board of trade, is in receipt of two communications, one being from the management of a large silk mill and the other from the owners of a glass factory.

It is the desire of the members of both firms to secure new locations and the communications state that East Liverpool is a desirable point. Both factories are at present located in the east. The silk mill employs 500 skilled workmen and the glass plant about 400. The management of both agrees to employ the same forces in case they locate here.

Attorney Travis is satisfied that the companies are reliable. He has been furnished with all kinds of proof that both mean business. Since the East Liverpool board of trade is non est, it is the intention of Attorney Travis to turn the propositions over to Wellsville business men, as that city is able to support a board of trade, which will doubtless take the deals in hand.

A number of local business men to whom Mr. Travis submitted the propositions manifested no interest whatever, explaining that the city had all the factories it needed.

"It is a shame that industries desiring to locate here should go begging," said Mr. Travis. "But if the town cannot or will not support a board of trade, there is no help for it."

THE FOOTBALL TEAM

Again Reorganized And Will Hereafter Be the Y. M. C. A. Eleven.

After the regular practice last night the East Liverpool foot ball team held a meeting at the Y. M. C. A.

It was decided that in the future the team should be known as the Y. M. C. A. eleven, and General Secretary M. C. Wright was made assistant manager. Several other changes were made, notable among them being the addition of Physical Director Stephens to the team.

Arrangements were made to secure the services of Thomas L. ("Lefty") Baker, of Youngstown, who will either play fullback or right tackle. Baker is one of the strongest players in this section and his services will doubtless strengthen the eleven materially.

On next Saturday the local team will play the McKeever academy eleven at West End park and a good game is promised.

BOYS ARRESTED

Bound Over as Trespassers for Stealing And Eating Peaches.

Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Frank Neigh, Howard and Clyde Keyser and Michael McTighe, of Fairfield township, were arrested and taken before Mayor Farrell yesterday afternoon on a charge of trespassing, preferred by George Rice, a farmer of that township. They were bound over in the sum of $20 each for appearance at probate court. They are boys and were eating peaches.

COT SOME CAME

Four Local Nimrods on a Hunting Trip Across the River.

Ed Jackson, Joseph Wynn, Ed Moore and John Ward, employees of the Wm. Brunt pottery, made a hunting excursion across the river yesterday in the vicinity of Newell. They were successful in killing two groundhogs, a dozen birds and three squirrels.

While shooting at an improvised target Mr. Wynn had the finger of his right hand severely bruised and cut by the recoil of the gun.

River Only Three Feet.

The marks at the wharf this morning registered three feet and stationary. The Cricket will pass up tomorrow afternoon.

STRICKEN DOWN BY HEART DISEASE

First National Bank Building Janitress Died Suddenly Today.

TAKEN ILL GOING TO WORK

Helpless And Unable to Call Anyone to Her Aid—Removed to Her Home After Some Delay And Expired Almost Immediately.

Amelia M. Wasignara, 46 years of age, 174 Washington street, died very suddenly this morning from an attack of heart disease.

Miss Wasignara has been janitress of the First National bank for several years, and this morning arrived at the building at 6:45, as was her usual custom. She had barely passed the inner door of the main hall when she was attacked. She struck against the south wall and came near falling, but succeeded in making her way to a chair which always stands in the hallway near the elevator shaft for the convenience of Janitor William Moore.

Miss Wasignara, realizing that she was very ill, did her best to attract the attention of Mr. Moore, but he occupies rooms on the top floor, and although he heard the faint cry of the sick woman, thought it was the girls of the telephone exchange coming to work, and paid no attention to the matter at the time.

At 6:55 Pressman Fred Herbert, of the News Review office, entered the hall and at once perceived that the woman was very ill. At her request Mr. Herbert hastened to inform the janitor who responded immediately. Mr. Moore states that he had no doubt that the woman was dying, as soon as he saw her, as the eyes were set and she displayed other signs which indicated that she was rapidly sinking.

A physician was hurriedly summoned, but was some time in arriving. When he reached the sick woman he at once set about to relieve her if possible. A hypodermic injection was administered, which partially alleviated the pain, but the relief was only temporary and she sank rapidly.

Mr. Moore proposed taking the sufferer to his apartments, and Mrs. Moore had already begun preparing a place for her to lie down, but Miss Wasignara pleaded to be taken home, saying she knew she had but a short time to live and wanted to pass the remaining time in her own home.

A carriage was summoned and was so long in coming that the city ambulance was called. Both vehicles arrived at the same time. The stretcher was brought from the ambulance and after the woman had been placed comfortably upon it those in charge thought it advisable to carry her, as they had but a short distance to go. The patient was extremely portly, and it required the efforts of four men to carry the stretcher. Miss Wasignara was made as comfortable as circumstances would permit and everything possible done for her relief, but she passed away at about 8 o'clock.

Amelia Wasignara was one of the best known women in this section, having been born in East Liverpool in 1855, and having lived here all her life. She possessed extraordinary business qualifications for a woman, and had succeeded in amassing a considerable amount of property.

Miss Wasignara is survived by one sister and two brothers. Her parents died many years ago. No arrangements have yet been made for the funeral.

KNIGHTS OF COLUMBUS

aLarge Numbers of Them to Attend Ceremonies at Steubenville Soon.

The Steubenville Knights of Columbus are preparing to confer the three degrees on a class of over 40 candidates of that city and Wellsville on Oct. 27.

About 300 visitings Knights will be there from East Liverpool, Wheeling, Canton, Massillon, Youngstown, Wellsville, Dennison, Cleveland, Columbus, Toledo, Zanesville and Pittsburg.

A banquet will be served at Falk & O'Neal's hall.

BACK AMONG FRIENDS

Capt. Kirby Walker, of the United States Cavalry, Visiting Lisbon.

CITY COUNCIL MUST NOW ACT UPON THE GARBAGE MATTER

Fourteen years ago the captain left the Patriot office and entered the military academy at West Point, New York, and after graduation there he entered the regular army as second lieutenant and has served faithfully in the field and in camp for more than ten years. He has lately been promoted to the rank of captain and commands Troop F, 14th regiment of U. S. cavalry now stationed at Fort Wingate, New Mexico. About two months ago he returned from the Philippines, where he has been on active duty in the field for more than two years. Aside from a little malaria his health has been good while in the islands and he returns looking well and feeling hearty. His stay here is necessarily limited, as he must soon return to the fort, there to resume active duties by way of fitting his troop for the field. He may be ordered to the Philippines again within a year.

NOT WORRIED

No Intimations of Lawsuits Over the Recent Reservoir Break.

The report from an unreliable quarter that the city council is much concerned because of the possibility of damage suits being instituted against the city as a result of the reservoir disaster, is unauthorized and simply absurd. According to the water works board, no intimation has been given by those who suffered losses that such a move is even anticipated and the author of the story alleging that council is worried to know where the money is to come from knew not what he was talking about.

Members of the Harker Pottery company have not even thought of entering a damage suit. The gentlemen, of course, expect to be recouped for their loss, but they have no reason to fear that they will not be given a fair deal without resorting to law. J. W. Gipper, clerk of the water works board, when asked if the matter of damage claims would be turned over to council, said:

"All this hubbub about lawsuits is so absurd as to be unworthy of notice. The city council has no reason to feel alarmed, and I don't believe any of its more able and thinking members are at all concerned. The water works trustees have said or done nothing to vex the solons and the report to the contrary has been heralded only to create dissension."

"No estimate has yet been made by the Harker pottery company of the loss sustained, but when this is done and the claim is presented, then it will be time for these calamity howlers to let loose if the water works trustees appeal to council."

Mr. Gipper would not say anything regarding the payment of the claims. He said the trustees were keeping still.

COURT BUSINESS

Several Small Cases Settled at the Cost of Defendants.

Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—The case of Augustine Knam vs. O. T. Burson to recover $57 on a promissory note is on trial before a jury today.

The following cases have been disposed of: B. F. Rhodes vs. Joseph Miller; settled at defendant's cost.

Lewis Bros. vs. James Swaney; settled at defendant's cost.

George Wilshaw et al. vs. Ellen M. O'Connor, settled.

In the case of Mary Noble, executrix vs. Lucinda Householder, to collect a promissory note, a judgment of $724 was entered against the defendant.

MOST ENJOYABLE

And Largely Attended Was the S. of V. Banquet Last Night.

A most enjoyable and profitable social session and stag banquet was held by General Garfield camp No. 3, Sons of Veterans, last evening.

With the object of promoting a more cordial feeling among the members of the order in this vicinity, invitations were issued to the camps in Wellsville, Salem, East Palestine and Toronto. The invitations were responded to by all excepting Salem.

After the regular business meeting the large crowd present spent the evening until an early hour this morning in various games and feasting.

Health Board Revokes Its Action in Advertising For Bids.

SOLICITOR GIVES ADVICE

Denies an Unjust Rumor and Says the Board Is a Legal One.

Health Authorities, Having Made Their Recommendations, Leave Council to Deal With Them, Washing Their Hands of the Matter.

It is now up to the city council to take the garbage matter in hand. This is a duty which the board of health at its special meeting last night imposed upon the city fathers with the distinct understanding that they shall be expected to relieve the existing conditions without looking for further assistance from the health board.

The session was a brief one, but business-like, and so shaped matters that it gives council no possible chance to do any more see-sawing in an effort to shift the garbage problem on the board of health.

Solicitor Gaston was present and lent valuable aid. Soon after the session had been called to order by Mayor Davidson, who made a brief speech in which he intimated that the action taken at the previous meeting was illegal, Dr. Birkett asked the solicitor if such was true. He was informed that the board overstepped its bounds when it undertook to advertise for bids for the erection of a new garbage plant.

Daniel Nellis next took the floor. He said it had been openly charged by a local newspaper that the board was an illegal body. He said that if this was true he wanted to know it. Solicitor Gaston was appealed to and stated that the body was a legal one.

He stated that one section of the law stipulates that not more than two practicing physicians shall serve on health boards. He added, however, that a recent ruling of the Ohio Supreme Court had modified the law in this regard. The solicitor said it was customary to have no more than two physicians on any one board, but by no means mandatory. He assured the members of the board that any action taken by them was not illegal because three of its members are physicians.

The solicitor made a statement to the board in which he denied a report that he was a stockholder in the Sanitary Reduction Company and stated emphatically he never owned a penny's worth of stock and never expected to.

Mr. Gaston defined the real duties of the board and explained that it was only empowered with authority to provide health measures and then recommend to council what action was further necessary.

Dr. Norris made a motion that the action taken relative to advertising for bids for a new garbage furnace be rescinded. The motion carried and then Dr. Birkett took the floor. He said he considered that the board had done everything in its power to provide for the disposition of garbage and made a motion that the clerk send a written communication to council instructing that body that the board had already made a recommendation and that it had nothing further to add. The motion carried unanimously.

It will be remembered that the health board several weeks ago sent a recommendation to council asking that a new $12,000 Dixon furnace be erected. Council took no action in the matter further than to appoint a committee to confer with the health board. The conference was held, but nothing accomplished. It is well known that the council does not favor the expenditure of any more money for a new furnace, and it remains to be seen what will be done.

About two months ago he returned from the Philippines, where he has been on active duty in the field for more than two years. Aside from a little malaria his health has been good while in the islands and he returns looking well and feeling hearty. His stay here is necessarily limited, as he must soon return to the fort, there to resume active duties by way of fitting his troop for the field. He may be ordered to the Philippines again within a year.

TALF OF DAMAGE CLAIMS DOES NOT DISTURB COUNCIL.

No Intimations of Lawsuits Over the Recent Reservoir Break.

The report from an unreliable quarter that the city council is much concerned because of the possibility of damage suits being instituted against the city as a result of the reservoir disaster, is unauthorized and simply absurd. According to the water works board, no intimation has been given by those who suffered losses that such a move is even anticipated and the author of the story alleging that council is worried to know where the money is to come from knew not what he was talking about.

Members of the Harker Pottery company have not even thought of entering a damage suit. The gentlemen, of course, expect to be recompensed for their loss, but they have no reason to fear that they will not be given a fair deal without resorting to law. J. W. Gipner, clerk of the water works board, when asked if the matter of damage claims would be turned over to council, said:

"All this hubbub about lawsuits is so absurd as to be unworthy of notice. The city council has no reason to feel alarmed, and I don't believe any of its more able and thinking members are at all concerned. The water works trustees have said or done nothing to vex the solons and the report to the contrary has been heralded only to create dissension."

"No estimate has yet been made by the Harker pottery company of the loss sustained, but when this is done and the claim is presented, then it will be time for these calamity howlers to let loose if the water works trustees appeal to council."

Mr. Gipner would not say anything regarding the payment of the claims. He said the trustees were keeping still.

Several Small Cases Settled at the Cost of Defendants.

Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—The case of Augustine Knam vs. O. T. Burson to recover $57 on a promissory note is on trial before a jury today.

The following cases have been disposed of: B. F. Rhodes vs. Joseph Miller; settled at defendant's cost.

Lewis Bros. vs. James Swaney; settled at defendant's cost.

George Wilshaw et al. vs. Ellen M. O'Connor, settled.

MOST ENJOYABLE

And Largely Attended Was the S. of V. Banquet Last Night.

A most enjoyable and profitable social session and stag banquet was held by General Garfield camp No. 3, Sons of Veterans, last evening.

With the object of promoting a more cordial feeling among the members of the order in this vicinity, invitations were issued to the camps in Wellsville, Salem, East Palestine and Toronto. The invitations were responded to by all excepting Salem.

After the regular business meeting the large crowd present spent the evening until an early hour this morning in various games and feasting.

Health Board Revokes Its Action in Advertising For Bids.

SOLICITOR GIVES ADVICE

Denies an Unjust Rumor and Says the Board Is a Legal One.

Health Authorities, Having Made Their Recommendations, Leave Council to Deal With Them, Washing Their Hands of the Matter.

It is now up to the city council to take the garbage matter in hand. This is a duty which the board of health at its special meeting last night imposed upon the city fathers with the distinct understanding that they shall be expected to relieve the existing conditions without looking for further assistance from the health board.

The session was a brief one, but business-like, and so shaped matters that it gives council no possible chance to do any more see-sawing in an effort to shift the garbage problem on the board of health.

Solicitor Gaston was present and lent valuable aid. Soon after the session had been called to order by Mayor Davidson, who made a brief speech in which he intimated that the action taken at the previous meeting was illegal, Dr. Birkett asked the solicitor if such was true. He was informed that the board overstepped its bounds when it undertook to advertise for bids for the erection of a new garbage plant.

Daniel Nellis next took the floor. He said it had been openly charged by a local newspaper that the board was an illegal body. He said that if this was true he wanted to know it. Solicitor Gaston was appealed to and stated that the body was a legal one.

He stated that one section of the law stipulates that not more than two practicing physicians shall serve on health boards. He added, however, that a recent ruling of the Ohio Supreme Court had modified the law in this regard. The solicitor said it was customary to have no more than two physicians on any one board, but by no means mandatory. He assured the members of the board that any action taken by them was not illegal because three of its members are physicians.

The solicitor made a statement to the board in which he denied a report that he was a stockholder in the Sanitary Reduction Company and stated emphatically he never owned a penny's worth of stock and never expected to.

Mr. Gaston defined the real duties of the board and explained that it was only empowered with authority to provide health measures and then recommend to council what action was further necessary.

Dr. Norris made a motion that the action taken relative to advertising for bids for a new garbage furnace be rescinded. The motion carried and then Dr. Birkett took the floor. He said he considered that the board had done everything in its power to provide for the disposition of garbage and made a motion that the clerk send a written communication to council instructing that body that the board had already made a recommendation and that it had nothing further to add. The motion carried unanimously.

It will be remembered that the health board several weeks ago sent a recommendation to council asking that a new $12,000 Dixon furnace be erected. Council took no action in the matter further than to appoint a committee to confer with the health board. The conference was held, but nothing accomplished. It is well known that the council does not favor the expenditure of any more money for a new furnace, and it remains to be seen what will be done.

Cameron Is Coming.

Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—I. B. Cameron, of Columbus, state treasurer and chairman of the Columbiana county executive committee, will be in Lisbon tonight to remain a day or so and look over the political situation.

Licensed to Wed.

Marriage licenses have been issued to Charles Wilson Smith and Ella Marietta, both of East Rochester; Frank R. Murry and Eileen Boyton, both of East Liverpool.

CARS SOON TO RUN ON THE NEW TRACK

New Street Railway Extension in the East End Ready For Use.

THE SMITH'S FERRY LINE

Being Pushed to Completion, Work Being in Progress on Both Sides of Dry Run—Extension Causes a Building Boom.

Connection is being made today on the East Liverpool railway with the new track that is being built beyond the loop in the East End. It will be perhaps a few weeks before the Smith's Ferry extension is completed, but a stretch of a half mile beyond the loop is in readiness for service. With the putting in of the connection mentioned cars may be run on Thursday morning to the J. B. Martin residence on Elizabeth street. A switch has been located at that point.

Construction on the line at Dry Run and beyond that point is progressing. The expense of the Dry Run fill is borne jointly by the street railway and the city, the latter paying one-third of the cost.

The street railway people have had no trouble in getting their right of way through the "Cud" Hamilton farm, though it has been found necessary to move his residence. A force of men commenced this morning to move the building, which stands on the state line. The extension has caused building improvements to look up. George Anderson and J. B. Martin have the first house raised in the Brooks addition on Harvey avenue. They will build 20 dwellings in that section, but will not have them all completed this fall.

MACHINERY ALL IN PLACE

New Porcelain Works Will Be Ready to Start in a Very Few Days.

The new 25-horse engine was in running order and started yesterday afternoon at the East Liverpool porcelain works. Machinery at the plant is now nearly all in position, including the pug mill, presses, sifter and the plunger-up for making the mix.

It will be necessary to roof the kiln shed and put the lining in the kiln before the plant is started. One kiln has been built and two more will be constructed, with further additions whenever needed.

Clay will be made next week and within a very few days the plant will be in active operation. Nothing but porcelain goods will be manufactured and the company will confine its output to the making of electrical specialties, such as insulators, knobs and kindred pieces used in electrical supplies. Insulators will be turned out that vary in dimensions from two to three inches in length.

Only a few men are at work completing the buildings and appurtenances to the plant, which will be finished within a few days.

BLOOD POISON FEARED

William Pinkerton Suffering Greatly From Stepping On a Nail.

William Pinkerton, employed in the slip room at Laughlin No. 2, is seriously indisposed at his home in Chaffinville. Sunday morning he entered his cellar for kindling wood and stepped on a rusty nail. The nail penetrated the ball of his right foot, making an ugly wound.

Mr. Pinkerton's condition became somewhat alarming, yesterday the family physician being hastily summoned. His foot and leg were badly swollen and grave fears of blood poisoning and possibly lockjaw are entertained.

BEAUTIFUL ROSES

Continue to Bloom in the Yard of Rev. N. M. Crowe.

Beautiful roses continue to bloom in the yard of Rev. N. M. Crowe's residence on Pennsylvania avenue. He has three bushes that have bloomed since early in the season. The dense fogs of evening and morning preserve the buds from the frost.

During the recent months Mr. Crowe's bushes have produced bushels of fine floral specimens.

Valley Council Growing.

Ohio Valley council No. 23, O. U. A. M., will have an important business meeting Thursday evening at their regular headquarters. A full turnout of the members is expected. Four candidates will receive degrees, after which some important matters of business will be attended to and an entertainment ensue.

Enjoyable Meeting.

The young ladies of the Four F's club held an enjoyable levee Tuesday evening at the home of Miss Alice Allabaugh on Mulberry street. It was the first meeting held in three weeks. A fine musical and literary program was given, after which delicious refreshments were served.

Church Board Met.

A meeting of the official board of the Second M. E. church was held last evening. It was the first official meeting of the new conference year and several matters of importance to the welfare of the church were considered.

Equine Photographs.

Photographs of Tom and Jerry, the horses of the East End fire station, have been taken. The pose assumed by Jerry is exceptionally fine. The firemen will have the pictures enlarged and give them a conspicuous place on the walls of the East End station.

Communion Services.

Communion services commence this evening at the Second Presbyterian church. At 7:45 p. m., Rev. W. E. Hill will preach. On Thursday and Friday evenings at the same hour Rev. T. P. Potts, of Vanport, Pa., will occupy the pulpit.

A Bean Bake.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Second M. E. church will give a bean bake Thursday evening from 5 to 8 o'clock at the residence of Mrs. Eck Allison on Ohio street.

EAST END AFFAIRS.

Rev. G. W. Orcutt is spending the day in Pittsburgh. Samuel L. Polen is sick at his home on Mulberry street.

Harold, the four-months-old son of L. W. Haney, who resides on Elmwood street, is recovering from a severe illness.

James Owen, who has been critically ill at his home on St. George street for a few weeks, is now considerably improved.

Rev. C. W. Swan returns Thursday from Newcomerstown and will spend a brief while with his father, Rev. James Swan.

The dance given last evening at Columbia park was well attended, a large crowd taking the cars for the scene of pleasure.

Mrs. Jeff Fuller and daughter, Miss

Rue Fuller, arrived this evening from Huntington, W. Va. They will make their home in the East End, joining Mr. Fuller, who arrived in June. They will reside in the Calhoun addition.

KILLED AT LEETONIA

Bumping of Cars Resulted in an Italian's Death—Another Lost an Arm.

Leetonia, Oct. 15.—An accident occurred here which resulted in one Italian losing his life and another losing an arm. It seems that the two men were working in a steel sloping bottom flat car. This was struck by three cars which were being shifted around and which the engineer had lost control of, as a coupling had broken, causing the cars to run away and bump into those in which the Italians were shoveling ore.

The Italians were knocked through the bottom of the car and before they could escape were run over. One, whose name was Frank Gohtans, received injuries from which he died a few hours later. His right leg was crushed from the knee to the hip. The other, whose name was James Doder, escaped with a crushed right arm and which it was necessary to amputate.

COST THEM NOTHING

Local Socialist Labor Candidates Spent No Money in Their Canvass.

Columbus, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Francis Dixon, of East Liverpool, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Samuel Borton, of Valley, near Salem, candidate for judge of the supreme court, on the Socialist Labor ticket, have certified to Secretary of State L. C. Laylin that they spent no money in their canvass.

Borton reported on the regular expense blank, but Dixon was unable to get one, as he explains in his letter.

CLARKSON

Clarkson, Oct. 16.—The fall term of the New Harmony school district began Monday morning with Will Edwards, of East Liverpool, in charge.

Prof. C. M. L. Allaire, wife and two children, of Youngstown, visited the professor's mother south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Moore have returned from their western trip hale and hearty. They have donned their old clothes and gone to work again.

Clem Warrick and Elmer are taking in the Pan-American this week. Lena Warrick went about two weeks ago.

Will Lyons and Otto Sutton are attending business college at East Liverpool.

"Squire Moore is able to be around again after his siege of rheumatism which threatened to lay him up for the winter.

Ornaments on Saddles.

In the fifth century saddles were made so extravagantly magnificent that a prohibition was issued by Leo I. in which it was ordered that no one should ornament them with pearls or precious stones. In the sixth century the Emperor Mauritius required that the saddles should have large coverings of fur. The ignominious punishment of "bearing the saddle" had its origin in the middle ages.

CURED OF ASTHMA

After 35 Years of Suffering.

It will be gratifying to asthmatic readers to learn that an absolute cure has at last been discovered by Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann. That the remedy is an effectual one cannot be doubted after perusal of such testimony as that of C. W. Van Atwerp, Fulton, N. Y., who says: "Your remedy (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure) is the best I ever used. I bought a package of our druggist and tried it and one box entirely cured me of asthma, and I have not had it since. I can now go to bed and sleep all night with perfect comfort, which I have not done before for 35 years, and I thank you for the health that I now enjoy. I hope that you will publish this letter, that others may learn of its wonderful virtues."

DISFRANCHISEMENT.

A Labor Organ Assails the Southern Democrats.

Disfranchisements of Poor Whites in the South—How Would It Be in Ohio With Democracy in Power.

"To vote the Democratic ticket this fall is to indorse the abolition of free speech and disfranchisement." These words in the editorial of the Cleveland Citizen issued by the Central Labor Union size up the situation with a thoroughness and completeness that must commend itself to every impartial student of events. They refer to the decision of the Virginia Constitutional Convention to eliminate from the bill of rights the words "freedom of speech." Of course the Virginia action was in the flush of excitement over the assassination of the president, but The Citizen argues that advantage was taken of that excitement to accomplish a purpose previously cherished by some of the delegates at least.

The Citizen says: "We have repeatedly called attention to acts of perfidy that have been perpetrated by the hypocritical bourgeois legislators of the south, and only a few days ago we published the fact that tens of thousands of poor men, blacks and whites, had been disfranchised by this same constitutional convention of Virginia. Now comes the crowning act of infamy. Free speech is to be destroyed in order that, in case those who are disfranchised agitate for the right to vote to adjust their grievances, they may be suppressed and thrown in prison."

This is the judgment, not of a Republican paper, but of a strictly labor organ, that supports the Socialist party. Its conclusions are correct, nevertheless, and it is touching upon a great question that is forcing itself to the front in American politics, in spite of every endeavor to keep it down. The vote-suppression, systematically carried out in the southern states, the Democratic managers there are seeking to give the shield not only of statutes but of state constitutions.

Virginia is only following where Louisiana and North Carolina have led, nor is she alone in this infamy. Only a few days ago Senator Gorman and other Democratic leaders in Maryland publicly proclaimed their purpose to shut out the thousands of colored citizens of that state from the ballot-box, in one way if not by another, while in Alabama there is soon to be voted upon by the people a new constitution prepared expressly for the purpose of disfranchisement.

The Birmingham (Alabama) Times says that "the new constitution was carefully prepared to disfranchise thousands upon thousands of illiterate white people, and yet it is so artfully drafted as to make many poor deluded white men think no white man will be disfranchised." This is Democracy in the land where it is without restraint. Would it be any better in Ohio, if it dared to show itself in its true condition?

TREASURY SURPLUS.

Sharp Contrast With the Deficit Under Cleveland.

No government on earth except the United States begins to have in its treasury anything like the amount of gold that this country had at the close of the first quarter of this fiscal year, a total of nearly $529,000,000. Besides the reserve fund of $150,000,000 in gold to protect the greenbacks and make them of undoubted full value, there are in the treasury for the redemption of gold notes and certificates, which are part of the business circulating medium, about $308,000,000, and about $76,000,000 of coin and bullion in the general fund. This is quite a sharp contrast with the President Cleveland condition, when the treasury couldn't keep up its $100,000,000 reserve.

An Ohio Democratic paper mournfully observes that "the surplus gathered by taxation is piling up in the treasury at the rate of $5,000,000 a month, or $60,000,000 a year," and moans over the locking up of this immense amount of money, with a complaint that the Democratic scheme for tax reduction on the free trade plan was not adopted, because it would have avoided any such accumulation of government funds. To begin with, the money is not piling up, for Secretary Gage, in the last three months, has bought in $19,500,000 interest-bearing debt, thus stopping the interest upon it, and making money for the government out of it, although he paid $24,000,000 cash for those bonds. His total operations of the same kind for the last six months amount to the purchase of $33,000,000 of interest-bearing debt, at a cost of $40,000,000.

For the first quarter of this fiscal year the McKinley administration has paid $7,000,000 a month of debt reduction—a sharp contrast with the condition under the last Democratic "for revenue" tariff that the Ohio Kilbourne platform would like to have tried again. With the Wilson bill, under Grover Cleveland's administration, the debt increased—not decreased, mind you—averaging $7,500,000 increase per month, and aggregated, without any Spanish war or its consequences, an increase in Cleveland's last administration of $262,315,400 in the interest-bearing debt, the last of it not to be paid until 1925, and a total of principal and interest of $501,843,880.

REPUBLICANISM VINDICATED.

"Some 'Startling Figures'" is the headline given by the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the principal organ of its party in the state that is supporting Mr. Kilbourne, to the following editorial, that is such a complete vindication of the Republican policies, — whether meant to be so or not—that as the involuntary tribute of a political opponent, it is itself both astonishing and most welcome:

The latest issue by the bureau of statistics of the monthly bulletin of exports and imports contains a table showing the excess of exports over imports for six years, each ending Aug. 31. The figures are amazing.

	Exports.	Excess Exports.
1896	$ 906,403,525	$109,230,698
1897	1,006,603,779	309,930,745
1898	1,236,643,922	613,451,902
1899	1,209,504,882	546,272,560
1900	1,300,000,320	916,062,516
1901	1,500,613,236	938,730,814

It will be seen by examination of this table of exports and of excess over imports that both in 1900 and in 1901 the excess of exports over imports exceeds the total exports of 1896. In 1896 the imports were $737,164,837, and the exports $906,403,525; in 1901 the imports were $561,882,422, and the exports $1,500,613,236. In the six years the imports had decreased $175,282,415, and the exports increased $594,209,711. Thus the gain in exports largely exceeds the total imports of 1901.

These are figures to do some thinking over. There has been a great change of conditions since the enactment of the Dingley tariff law.

POLITICAL COMMENT.

Ohio is getting ready to stand up for William McKinley, though dead, in a way that will break all recent records in the state.—Ohio State Journal.

Wouldn't it please the Democratic press if they could make it appear that the relations between President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna are strained? But they will not be accommodated. Senator Hanna is always fooling the Democratic editors.—Ohio State Journal.

The record of Governor Nash has been such that he will have the support of the decent, law-abiding citizens of Ohio this fall, and they are in a majority in the state.—Elyria Chronicle.

President Roosevelt is exceedingly popular in Cuba, and from present indications the Cubans are likely to ask him at any time to be their president, too.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Bryan says Kilbourne is better than his platform. This is probably due to the fact that Kilbourne for the past several years has been trying to induce Bryan to abandon his silver views—but really it wouldn't do to say anything about that, for Kilbourne wants the votes of the silver people, and his antipathy to that fact must be carefully concealed.

An Indianapolis paper of Thursday last reports $7 per hundred paid for a car load of select live hogs at the Union stock yards in that city. This, it says, is the highest price paid since Sept. 26, 1893.—Sandusky Register.

KILLED AT LEETONIA

Bumping of Cars Resulted in an Italian's Death—Another Lost an Arm.

Leetonia, Oct. 16.—An accident occurred here which resulted in one Italian losing his life and another losing an arm. It seems that the two men were working in a steel sloping bottom flat car. This was struck by three cars which were being shifted around and which the engineer had lost control of, as a coupling had broken, causing the cars to run away and bump into those in which the Italians were shoveling ore.

The Italians were knocked through the bottom of the car and before they could escape were run over. One, whose name was Frank Gohtans, received injuries from which he died a few hours later. His right leg was crushed from the knee to the hip. The other, whose name was James Doder, escaped with a crushed right arm and which it was necessary to amputate.

COST THEM NOTHING

Local Socialist Labor Candidates Spent No Money in Their Canvass.

Columbus, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Francis Dixon, of East Liverpool, candidate for lieutenant governor, and Samuel Borton, of Valley, near Salem, candidate for judge of the supreme court, on the Socialist Labor ticket, have certified to Secretary of State L. C. Laylin that they spent no money in their canvass.

Borton reported on the regular expense blank, but Dixon was unable to get one, as he explains in his letter.

CLARKSON

Clarkson, Oct. 16.—The fall term of the New Harmony school district began Monday morning with Will Edwards, of East Liverpool, in charge.

Prof. C. M. L. Allaffer, wife and two children, of Youngstown, visited the professor's mother south of town.

Mr. and Mrs. E. S. Moore have returned from their western trip hale and hearty. They have donated their old clothes and gone to work again.

Clem Warrick and Elmer are taking in the Pan-American this week. Lena Warrick went about two weeks ago.

Will Lyons and Otto Sutton are attending business college at East Liverpool.

Ornaments on Saddles.

In the fifth century saddles were made so extravagantly magnificent that a prohibition was issued by Leo I, in which it was ordered that no one should ornament them with pearls or precious stones. In the sixth century the Emperor Mauritius required that the saddles should have large coverings of fur. The ignominious punishment of "bearing the saddle" had its origin in the middle ages.

CURED OF ASTHMA

After 35 Years of Suffering.

It will be gratifying to asthmatic readers to learn that an absolute cure has at last been discovered by Dr. Rudolph Schiffmann. That the remedy is an effectual one cannot be doubted after perusal of such testimony as that of C. W. Van Atwerp, Fulton, N. Y., who says: "Your remedy (Schiffmann's Asthma Cure) is the best I ever used. I bought a package of our druggist and tried it and one box entirely cured me of asthma, and I have not had it since. I can now go to bed and sleep all night with perfect comfort, which I have not done before for 35 years, and I thank you for the health that I now enjoy. I hope that you will publish this letter, that others may learn of its wonderful virtues."

DISFRANCHISEMENT.

Disfranchisements of Poor Whites in the South—How Would It Be in Ohio With Democracy in Power.

"To vote the Democratic ticket this fall is to endorse the abolition of free speech and disfranchisement." These words in the editorial of the Cleveland Citizen issued by the Central Labor Union size up the situation with a thoroughness and completeness that must commend itself to every impartial student of events. They refer to the decision of the Virginia Constitutional Convention to eliminate from the bill of rights the words "freedom of speech." Of course the Virginia action was in the flush of excitement over the assassination of the president, but the Citizen argues that advantage was taken of that excitement to accomplish a purpose previously cherished by some of the delegates at least.

The Citizen says: "We have repeatedly called attention to acts of perfidy that have been perpetrated by the hypocritical bourbon legislators of the south, and only a few days ago we published the fact that tens of thousands of poor men, blacks and whites, had been disfranchised by this same constitutional convention of Virginia. Now comes the crowning act of infamy. Free speech is to be destroyed in order that, in case those who are disfranchised agitate for the right to vote to adjust their grievances, they may be suppressed and thrown into prison." This is the judgment, not of a Republican paper, but of a strictly labor organ, that supports the Socialist party. Its conclusions are correct, nevertheless, and it is touching upon a great question that is forcing itself to the front in American politics, in spite of every endeavor to keep it down. The vote-suppression, systematically carried out in the southern states, the Democratic managers there are seeking to give the shield not only of statutes but of state constitutions.

Virginia is only following where Louisiana and North Carolina have led, nor is she alone in this infamy. Only a few days ago Senator Gorman and other Democratic leaders in Maryland publicly proclaimed their purpose to shut out the thousands of colored citizens of that state from the ballot-box, in one way if not by another, while in Alabama there is soon to be voted upon by the people a new constitution prepared expressly for the purpose of disfranchisement.

The Birmingham (Alabama) Times says that "the new constitution was carefully prepared to disfranchise thousands upon thousands of illiterate white people, and yet it is so artfully drafted as to make many poor deluded white men think no white man will be disfranchised." This is Democracy in the land where it is without restraint. Would it be any better in Ohio, if it dared to show itself in its true condition?

TREASURY SURPLUS.

Sharp Contrast With the Deficit Under Cleveland.

No government on earth except the United States begins to have in its treasury anything like the amount of gold that this country had at the close of the first quarter of this fiscal year, a total of nearly $529,000,000. Besides the reserve fund of $150,000,000 in gold to protect the greenbacks and make them of undoubted full value, there are in the treasury for the redemption of gold notes and certificates, which are part of the business circulating medium, about $308,000,000, and about $76,000,000 of coin and bullion in the general fund. This is quite a sharp contrast with the President Cleveland condition, when the treasury couldn't keep up its $100,000,000 reserve.

An Ohio Democratic paper mournfully observes that "the surplus gathered by taxation is piling up in the treasury at the rate of $5,000,000 a month, or $60,000,000 a year," and moans over the locking up of this immense amount of money, with a complaint that the Democratic scheme for tax reduction on the free trade plan was not adopted, because it would have avoided any such accumulation of government funds. To begin with, the money is not piling up, for Secretary Gage, in the last three months, has bought in $19,500,000 interest-bearing debt, thus stopping the interest upon it, and making money for the government out of it, although he paid $24,000,000 cash for those bonds. His total operations of the same kind for the last six months amount to the purchase of $33,000,000 of interest-bearing debt, at a cost of $40,000,000.

For the first quarter of this fiscal year the McKinley administration has paid $7,000,000 a month of debt reduction—a sharp contrast with the condition under the last Democratic "for revenue" tariff that the Ohio Kilbourne platform would like to have tried again. With the Wilson bill, under Grover Cleveland's administration, the debt increased—not decreased, mind you—averaging $7,500,000 increase per month, and aggregated, without any Spanish war or its consequences, an increase in Cleveland's last administration of $262,315,400 in the interest-bearing debt, the last of it not to be paid until 1925, and a total of principal and interest of $501,843,880.

Which will the voters of Ohio choose?

REPUBLICANISM VINDICATED.

"Some 'Startling Figures'" is the headline given by the Cleveland Plain Dealer, the principal organ of its party in the state that is supporting Mr. Kilbourne, to the following editorial, that is such a complete vindication of the Republican policies, — whether meant to be so or not—that as the involuntary tribute of a political opponent, it is itself both astounding and most welcome:

The latest issue by the bureau of statistics of the monthly bulletin of exports and imports contains a table showing the excess of exports over imports for six years, each ending Aug. 31. The figures are amazing.

	Exports.	Excess Exports.
1896	$ 986,403,525	$169,239,698
1897	1,006,403,779	306,939,745
1898	1,236,643,922	613,451,902
1899	1,293,504,882	546,273,569
1900	1,330,000,520	618,062,516
1901	1,500,613,236	938,730,814

It will be seen by examination of this table of exports and of excess over imports that both in 1900 and in 1901 the excess of exports over imports exceeds the total exports of 1896. In 1896 the imports were $737,164,337, and the exports $906,403,525; in 1901 the imports were $561,882,422, and the exports $1,500,613,236. In the six years the imports had decreased $175,282,415, and the exports increased $594,209,711. Thus the gain in exports largely exceeds the total imports of 1901.

These are figures to do some thinking over. There has been a great change of conditions since the enactment of the Dingley tariff law.

POLITICAL COMMENT.

Ohio is getting ready to stand up for William McKinley, though dead, in a way that will break all recent records in the state.—Ohio State Journal.

Wouldn't it please the Democratic press if they could make it appear that the relations between President Roosevelt and Senator Hanna are strained? But they will not be accommodated. Senator Hanna is always fooling the Democratic editors.—Ohio State Journal.

The record of Governor Nash has been such that he will have the support of the decent, law-abiding citizens of Ohio this fall, and they are in a majority in the state.—Elyria Chronicle.

President Roosevelt is exceedingly popular in Cuba, and from present indications the Cubans are likely to ask him at any time to be their president, too.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

Bryan says Kilbourne is better than his platform. This is probably due to the fact that Kilbourne for the past several years has been trying to induce Bryan to abandon his silver views—but really it wouldn't do to say anything about that, for Kilbourne wants the votes of the silver people, and his antipathy to that fact must be carefully concealed.

An Indianapolis paper of Thursday last reports $7 per hundred paid for a car load of selected live hogs at the Union stock yards in that city. This, it says, is the highest price paid since Sept. 26, 1893.—Sandusky Register.

NO DIVORCE ACTION.

By Episcopal Convention—Question at Rest for Another Three Years.

CANON NO 36 WAS REJECTED.

By House of Deputies, as Was Canon 37—Standing Committee on Capital and Labor Appointed By Both Houses—New Bishop chosen.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—The troublesome question of marriage and divorce was set at rest for another three years by the action of the house of deputies of the triennial Episcopal convention in rejecting both of the proposed canons on the subject, which were passed by the house of bishops. A great struggle of the convention has been over Section 4 of canon 36, virtually forbidding the remarriage of a divorced person by a priest of the church. This had passed the house of bishops and been adopted by a ye and nay vote in committee of the whole by the house of deputies.

When the committee rose and reported its work to the house a decisive vote was taken, not only on the troublesome fourth section, but on the entire canon, which was rejected as a whole.

Canon 37, which provides for the disciplining of persons marrying again after being divorced, met with a similar fate.

The house of deputies passed an amendment to article 10 of the constitution, permitting modified forms of worship, which, in spirit, is similar to the famous Huntington amendment, recently defeated. The amendments, though credited to Dr. McKim of Washington, was in reality presented by Dr. Huntington.

The bishops have yet to act before the amendment can become part of the constitution.

Both houses appointed members of a standing committee on capital and labor, which is to investigate the subject with a view to the peaceful settlement of disagreements between employers and workmen and report to each general convention.

Rev. Cameron Mann of Kansas it was nominated to be missionary bishop of North Dakota, in the place of Rev. Dr. Pierce, who failed of election in the house of deputies.

A general missionary meeting with special reference to work among the colored people was held at Trinity church. Addresses were made by several prominent bishops and priests interested in work in the South, in Hayti and in West Africa.

M'KINLEY BORE TRIALS

SO IMPRESSIVELY HIS PLACE WOULD HAVE BEEN TAKEN.

Gladly By Any of His Nurses, Said Dr. Mynter—Physicians' Statement.

New York, Oct. 16.—The physicians and surgeons who attended President McKinley through the closing days of his life presented to the state medical society, gathered here in semi-annual session, a lengthy report covering the medical and surgical history of the case of the martyred statesman. It was signed by Dr. Matthew D. Mann, Herman Mynter, Eugene Wasdin, Charles G. Stockton, P. M. Rixey, Roswell Park and Charles McBurney, and was read by Dr. Mann, who discussed the features as he proceeded. A general summary of it was given out by one of the physicians, which was, in part: Dr. Mann did not mention the operation. In speaking of the bulletins issued Dr. Mann said that every one of them was absolutely true. None had been misled in any manner. He told of the progress of the patient from day to day till the unfavorable turn, a very sudden one, of the seventh day, and he said he mentioned that to show that the bulletins issued were true and not misleading.

Dr. Mann said that there was absolutely no bacteriological infection. Continuing he said:

"If you ask me what caused the president's death I could not tell you. I doubt if that will ever be discovered. Amongst contributory causes, however, were the president's age, his lack of exercise and his naturally weak heart, which made his pulse high."

Dr. Mann was asked by one of the listening medical men why the "X" ray was not applied, so the missing bullet might be located.

Dr. Mann replied that there was nothing in the condition of the president to show that the bullet was doing any harm and he said that if the "X" ray had been used it would only have been to satisfy the curiosity of the physicians and the excitement attending the operation would have been harmful to the patient.

Dr. Mann went on to say that at no time whatever had there been the slightest disagreement among the physicians.

Dr. Mann did not say anything of the autopsy. Dr. Herman Mynter, a colleague of Dr. Mann in the president's case, corroborated all Dr. Mann said. He spoke of the fine traits of the president and of the remarkable exhibition of patience Mr. McKinley had displayed. Dr. Mynter spoke very feelingly of the Christian charity of President McKinley towards his assassin, and said that the president's manner of bearing his trials was so impressive that there was not one of the nurses who would not have gladly taken his place.

AN ARMOR PLATE TRUST.

Intended to Control Output in United States and Europe—For War and Merchant Vessels.

New York, Oct. 16.—The Journal and Advertiser was expected to say to-day:

"A new and gigantic industrial combination which consolidate the armor plate manufacture of this country enter into the building of merchant and war ships for the world trade, and take over the large and growing export trade of the United States Steel corporation, is about to be organized by J. P. Morgan and his allies."

The article then says that while no official details are obtainable the project will not only consolidate many details of the steel and fuel-business of the country now separated, but also serve to bring into closer relationship these interests and the great railroad interests controlled by the Vanderbilts and the Pennsylvania railroad. These interests are also to be closely allied with, if not made a unit with large interests of like character abroad, and that company is to be called the Anglo-American Steel Company. The Journal and Advertiser article also says that E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation will it is said be the president of the new concern.

WOULD BE BLACKMAILERS.

Three Young Men Caught in Act at Columbus.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—Three young men, Dow and John Parsons and Edward Mitchell were arrested on the charge of attempting to extort $1,000 blackmail from Joseph J. Tanian, a well known business man of this city. The young men confessed to the crime after being taken into custody. On Monday night Mr. Tanian received an unsigned letter threatening to make alleged exposures and demanding $1,000 to be paid to three persons as the price of their silence. The letter advised Mr. Tanian to be at a certain place to-night if he desired to settle. He at once conferred with the chief of police and the arrangements for the meeting was carried out with the result that the three young men named were arrested.

Institution Robbed at Tiro, O.—Attempt to Rob Bank at Danville.

Gallion, O., Oct. 16.—The value of the Farmers and Citizens bank at Tiro, a small town near here, was wrecked by six robbers, who secured the contents and escaped. It is said the vault contained $40,000. The cracksmen used nitro-glycerine. The doors of the vault were blown completely off and the building partially demolished. The terrific explosion awoke the people of the town. All who approached the bank, however, were driven away by the robbers, who were armed with rifles. Mayor McConnell attempted to enter the bank, but was fired upon by the robbers and compelled to retreat.

Having secured their booty the cracksmen went to a livery stable, where they bound and gagged the owner. They then took several rigs and drove rapidly away. A posse and bloodhounds are on the trail of the robbers.

Danville, O., Oct. 16.—A daring attempt to rob the bank was made here, but so far as known, little of value was secured. Eight robbers effected an entrance into the bank building and blew the safe with dynamite. The building and the vault were wrecked.

The explosion aroused many citizens who hurried to the scene and a battle ensued. It is thought one robber was wounded, but all succeeded in escaping in vehicles, which they had in readiness. Pursuit was at once taken up and shots were exchanged until Adams' woods were reached, where the vehicles were abandoned by the robbers, who sought cover. The woods and all roads in the neighborhood have been placed under guard and it is expected that the men will be captured.

POOR AND CHARITIES DIRECTORS

Pennsylvania State Convention Met at Altoona, Pa.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 16.—About 150 delegates in the city attending the Twenty-seventh annual convention of the directors of the poor and charities of Pennsylvania. Mayor Gilles made the address of welcome. E. E. Long of Norristown and Mrs. Lydia Walton of Chester responded.

President P. H. Bridenbaugh of Hollidaysburg made his address. Hon. Cadwallader Biddle of Philadelphia, general agent of the board of public charities of Pennsylvania, discussed the "state appropriations to private and semi-charitable institutions—does it pay?" Limited talks in almshouse work were indulged in by H. W. Graybill of Lancaster; S. W. Lea of Allegheny; John A. Heister of Berks; J. Preston Thomas of Chester and George W. Beemer of Lackawanna. "Child Saving Work" was discussed by Mrs. H. L. Rankin of Fayette; Mrs.

PROTEST OF GARMAN.

Opposes Placing Coray's Name in Pennsylvania Democratic Ticket.

DONAHUE ALSO TOOK ACTION.

He Claimed the Meeting of the Pennsylvania Democratic State Committee Was Illegal—Some Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia News.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 16.—John M. Garman of Nanticoke, former Democratic state chairman, and Patrick Donahue of Philadelphia, a deposed member of the Democratic state committee, filed two sets of objections in court to the placing of the name of Representative Elisha A. Coray, Jr., on the Democratic state ticket for state treasurer; that Coray was nominated by the Union party at a convention held in Philadelphia, and when Andrew J. Palm, the regular Democratic nominee, withdrew, the Democratic state committee had no legal right to nominate Coray, who is a Republican, because the last Democratic state convention adopted a motion that vacancies on the state ticket should only be filled by Democrats. Garman alleges also that the nomination of Coray is illegal, inasmuch as the meeting of the state committee was not legal, not having been called in the regular way.

Mr. Donahue objects on the ground that he and his deposed colleagues had no notice of the meeting of the state committee which illegally nominated Mr. Coray; that the meeting was illegal and not convened according to party rules; that at the committee meeting six persons, not members, meaning ex-Gov. Pattison and others who took the places of the deposed committeemen, were present and voted for Coray illegally, and the substitution of Coray was illegal and contrary to the rules of the Democratic party.

Notice of the objections was also filed at the state department. The objectors will go into court to-day and ask that a day be fixed for argument. Grant Weidman of Lebanon and M. E. Olmsted of Harrisburg, will represent the objectors, and J. A. Stranahan and Robert Snodgrass will represent the Democratic state committee and Mr. Coray.

Chairman Creasy of the Democratic state committee announced the appointment of Mr. Palm; George R. Dixon of Elk; John Fisher of Shamokin; Charles E. Ingersoll, Philadelphia and Frank J. Fitzsimmons, Scranton, a committee to notify Mr. Coray of his nomination. The committee will meet in Philadelphia next Monday at Democratic headquarters to prepare a formal letter of notification, which will be forwarded to Mr. Coray at his home.

BANKS MAY CONSOLIDATE.

Five Contemplate Doing So at Cleveland.

Cleveland, O., Oct. 16.—Five of the largest banks in this city contemplate consolidation as a means of economy. The banks of the Bankers National, the Century National, the Metropolitan National and the American Exchange National. If the consolidation is effected the business will be done by one set of clerks. It is not the intention to lump the combined capital of the five institutions, but to have one institution of a million and a half capitalization. If but three banks enter the deal the other banks will liquidate and will turn over $500,000 as their share of the capitalization and divide the remaining assets among the stockholders as dividends. The matter has gone so far that a committee from each bank is working on the proposition.

TERRORIZING FARMERS.

Lawless Men, Like Cowboys, Commit Many Depredations.

Altoona, Oct. 16.—Word reached here this afternoon that an organized gang of lawless men, styling themselves cowboys, are terrorizing the citizens of Mattie and vicinity, south of here. It is difficult to obtain full particulars of the deeds of the outlaws, for farmers do not care to jeopardize their lives by telling. The murders have been recent, killing hogs. The other night a farmer who expected a raid remained on guard until next morning and then retired. A few hours later he found that the gang had visited his farm, after he had relaxed his vigilance, and slaughtered all his hogs. Authorities are making diligent efforts to apprehend the perpetrators.

CHOLERA IN INDIA.

People everywhere are acquainted with the remarkable cures of milder forms of bowel complaints effected by the use of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. It is not generally known, however, that this remedy has proved very successful in the treatment of Asiatic Cholera and is now sold and used all over India. Mrs. S. L. Hiscocks writing from Claret Road, Byculla, India, says: "I have used a good many bottles of Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy, and have found it invaluable as a cure as well as a preventive of cholera. So far I have never known it to fail if given in the early stages." For sale by Alvin H. Bulger, druggist.

FAREWELL TO THE SUMMER HAT.

Goodbye, my summer hat, goodbye! I faint would keep you still! I cannot part without a sigh, But you won't fill the bill! Although the one I paid for you Was really pretty steep, Although they're still on view, Just like you, very cheap. Your straw is black, your ribbon soiled, You're rather crooked, too; Alas, your whole appearance's spoiled; My summer hat, adieu! They've called you in, so au revoir! I have to fashion a new one; I mustn't wear you any more; A cloth hat's now the model—La Touche Hancock in New York Sun.

NO DIVORCE ACTION.

CANON NO 36 WAS REJECTED.

By House of Deputies, as Was Canon 37—Standing Committee on Capital and Labor Appointed By Both Houses—New Bishop chosen.

San Francisco, Oct. 16.—The troublesome question of marriage and divorce was set at rest for another three years by the action of the house of deputies of the triennial Episcopal convention in rejecting both of the proposed canons on the subject, which were passed by the house of bishops. A great struggle of the convention has been over Section 4 of canon 36, virtually forbidding the remarriage of a divorced person by a priest of the church. This had passed the house of bishops and been adopted by a ye and nay vote in committee of the whole by the house of deputies.

When the committee rose and reported its work to the house a decisive vote was taken, not only on the troublesome fourth section, but on the entire canon, which was rejected as a whole.

Canon 37, which provides for the disciplining of persons marrying again after being divorced, met with a similar fate.

The house of deputies passed an amendment to article 10 of the constitution, permitting modified forms of worship, which, in spirit, is similar to the famous Huntington amendment, recently defeated. The amendments, though credited to Dr. McKim of Washington, was in reality presented at the convention of three years ago by Dr. Huntington.

The bishops have yet to act before the amendment can become part of the constitution.

Both houses appointed members of a standing committee on capital and labor, which is to investigate the subject with a view to the peaceful settlement of disagreements between employers and workmen and report to each general convention.

Rev. Cameron Mann of Kansas it was nominated to be missionary bishop of North Dakota, in the place of Rev. Dr. Pierce, who failed of election in the house of deputies.

A general missionary meeting with special reference to work among the colored people was held at Trinity church. Addresses were made by several prominent bishops and priests interested in work in the South, in Hayti and in West Africa.

M'KINLEY BORE TRIALS

Gladly By Any of His Nurses, Said Dr. Mynter—Physicians' Statement.

New York, Oct. 16.—The physicians and surgeons who attended President McKinley through the closing days of his life presented to the state medical society, gathered here in semi-annual session, a lengthy report covering the medical and surgical history of the case of the martyred statesman. It was signed by Dr. Matthew D. Mann, Herman Mynter, Eugene Wasdin, Charles G. Stockton, P. M. Rixey, Roswell Park and Charles McBurney, and was read by Dr. Mann, who discussed the features as he proceeded. A general summary of it was given out by one of the physicians, which was, in part: Dr. Mann did not mention the operation. In speaking of the bulletins issued Dr. Mann said that every one of them was absolutely true. None had been misled in any manner. He told of the progress of the patient from day to day till the unfavorable turn, a very sudden one, of the seventh day, and he said he mentioned that to show that the bulletins issued were true and not misleading. Dr. Mann said that there was absolutely no bacteriological infection. Continuing he said:

"If you ask me what caused the president's death I could not tell you. I doubt if that will ever be discovered. Amongst contributory causes, however, were the president's age, his lack of exercise and his naturally weak heart, which made his pulse high."

Dr. Mann was asked by one of the listening medical men why the 'X' ray was not applied, so the missing bullet might be located.

Dr. Mann replied that there was nothing in the condition of the president to show that the bullet was doing any harm and he said that if the 'X' ray had been used it would only have been to satisfy the curiosity of the physicians and the excitement attending the operation would have been harmful to the patient.

Dr. Mann went on to say that at no time whatever had there been the slightest disagreement among the physicians.

Dr. Mann did not say anything of the autopsy. Dr. Herman Mynter, a colleague of Dr. Mann in the president's case, corroborated all Dr. Mann said. He spoke of the fine traits of the president and of the remarkable exhibition of patience Mr. McKinley had displayed. Dr. Mynter spoke very feelingly of the Christian charity of President McKinley towards his assassin, and said that the president's manner of bearing his trials was so impressive that there was not one of the nurses who would not have gladly taken his place.

AN ARMOR PLATE TRUST.

Intended to Control Output in United States and Europe—For War and Merchant Vessels.

New York, Oct. 16.—The Journal and Advertiser was expected to say to-day:

"A new and gigantic industrial combination which consolidate the armor plate manufacture of this country enter into the building of merchant and war ships for the world trade, and take over the large and growing export trade of the United States Steel corporation, is about to be organized by J. P. Morgan and his allies."

The article then says that while no official details are obtainable the project will not only consolidate many details of the steel and fuel business of the country now separated, but also serve to bring into closer relationship these interests and the great railroad interests controlled by the Vanderbilts and the Pennsylvania railroad. These interests are also to be closely allied with, if not made a unit with large interests of like character abroad, and that company is to be called the Anglo-American Steel Company. The Journal and Advertiser article also says that E. H. Gary of the United States Steel Corporation will it is said be the president of the new concern.

WOULD BE BLACKMAILERS.

Three Young Men Caught in Act at Columbus.

Columbus, O., Oct. 16.—Three young men, Dow and John Parsons and Edward Mitchell were arrested on the charge of attempting to extort $1,000 blackmail from Joseph J. Tanian, a well known business man of this city. The young men confessed to the crime after being taken into custody. On Monday night Mr. Tanian received an unsigned letter threatening to make alleged exposures and demanding $1,000 to be paid to three persons as the price of their silence. The letter advised Mr. Tanian to be at a certain place to-night if he desired to settle. He at once conferred with the chief of police and the arrangements for the meeting was carried out with the result that the three young men named were arrested.

PROTEST OF GARMAN.

Opposes Placing Coray's Name in Pennsylvania Democratic Ticket.

DONAHUE ALSO TOOK ACTION.

He Claimed the Meeting of the Pennsylvania Democratic State Committee Was Illegal—Some Ohio, Pennsylvania and West Virginia News.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 16.—John M. Garman of Nanticoke, former Democratic state chairman, and Patrick Donahue of Philadelphia, a deposed member of the Democratic state committee, filed two sets of objections in court to the placing of the name of Representative Elisha A. Coray, Jr., on the Democratic state ticket for state treasurer; that Coray was nominated by the Union party at a convention held in Philadelphia, and when Andrew J. Palm, the regular Democratic nominee, withdrew, the Democratic state committee had no legal right to nominate Coray, who is a Republican, because the last Democratic state convention adopted a motion that vacancies on the state ticket should only be filled by Democrats. Garman alleges also that the nomination of Coray is illegal, inasmuch as the meeting of the state committee was not legal, not having been called in the regular way.

Mr. Donahue objects on the ground that he and his deposed colleagues had no notice of the meeting of the state committee which illegally nominated Mr. Coray; that the meeting was illegal and not convened according to party rules; that at the committee meeting six persons, not members, meaning ex-Gov. Pattison and others who took the places of the deposed committeemen, were present and voted for Coray illegally, and the substitution of Coray was illegal and contrary to the rules of the Democratic party.

Notice of the objections was also filed at the state department. The objectors will go into court to-day and ask that a day be fixed for argument. Grant Weidman of Lebanon and M. E. Olmsted of Harrisburg, will represent the objectors, and J. A. Strahan and Robert Snodgrass will represent the Democratic state committee and Mr. Coray.

Chairman Cressy of the Democratic state committee announced the appointment of Mr. Palm; George R. Dixon of Elk; John Fisher of Shamokin; Charles E. Ingersoll, Philadelphia and Frank J. Fitzsimmons, Scranton, a committee to notify Mr. Coray of his nomination. The committee will meet in Philadelphia next Monday at Democratic headquarters to prepare a formal letter of notification, which will be forwarded to Mr. Coray at his home.

BANK WAS WRECKED AND $40,000 WAS TAKEN.

Institution Robbed at Tiro, O.—Attempt to Rob Bank at Danville.

Gallion, O., Oct. 16.—The value of the Farmers and Citizens bank at Tiro, a small town near here, was wrecked by six robbers, who secured the contents and escaped. It is said the vault contained $40,000. The cracksmen used nitro-glycerine. The doors of the vault were blown completely off and the building partially demolished. The terrific explosion awoke the people of the town. All who approached the bank, however, were driven away by the robbers, who were armed with rifles. Mayor McConnell attempted to enter the bank, but was fired upon by the robbers and compelled to retreat.

Having secured their booty the cracksmen went to a livery stable, where they bound and gagged the owner. They then took sever rigs and drove rapidly away. A posse and bloodhounds are on the trail of the robbers.

Danville, O., Oct. 16.—A daring attempt to rob the bank was made here, but so far as known, little of value was secured. Eight robbers effected an entrance into the bank building and blew the safe with dynamite. The building and the vault were wrecked.

The explosion aroused many citizens who hurried to the scene and a battle ensued. It is thought one robber was wounded, but all succeeded in escaping in vehicles, which they had in readiness. Pursuit was at once taken up and shots were exchanged until Adrians' woods were reached, where the vehicles were abandoned by the robbers, who sought cover. The woods and all roads in the neighborhood have been placed under guard and it is expected that the men will be captured.

POOR AND CHARITIES DIRECTORS

Pennsylvania State Convention Met at Altoona, Pa.

Altoona, Pa., Oct. 16.—About 150 delegates in the city attending the Twenty-seventh annual convention of the directors of the poor and charities of Pennsylvania. Mayor Giles made the address of welcome. E. E. Long of Norristown and Mrs. Lydia Walton of Chester responded.

President P. H. Bridenbaugh of Hollidaysburg made his address. Hon. Cadwallader Biddle of Philadelphia, general agent of the board of public charities of Pennsylvania, discussed the "state appropriations to private and semi-charitable institutions—does it pay?" Limited talks in almshouse work were indulged in by H. W. Graybill of Lancaster; S. W. Lea of Allegheny; John A. Heister of Berks; J. Preston Thomas of Chester and George W. Beemer of Lackawanna.

"Child Saving Work" was discussed by Mrs. H. L. Rankin of Fayette; Mrs.

A Fable.

One day as the Elephant was passing through the forest he came upon a Hare who had fallen into a pool and was shivering with cold, and in his good heartedness he stopped and called out:

"How, now, Mrs. Hare, but what is the trouble here?"

"Alas, but I fell into the pond and am almost dying with a chill!" wailed the Hare.

"Say you so. Ah, but we can easily remedy that. I will lie down beside you, and the heat of my body will soon make you warm and blithe again."

And the Elephant tumbled down with a grunt and a groan and observed that he was always cheerfully willing to put himself out for the sake of others, especially for the weak and helpless.

After a quarter of an hour, and not hearing from the Hare, he rose up to inquire if she felt better, and to his sorrow and consternation he discovered that he had crushed the life out of her as he laid down.

Moral: Our friends injure us more than our enemies.—Detroit Free Press.

Catastrophe of the Onaida.

One of the most extraordinary catastrophes that have befallen vessels of the United States destroyed the sloop of war Onaida in 1860. She was bound homeward, with a jolly ship's company, eager to see wives and sweethearts and native land once more, when not far out of port she was struck by the British steamer Bombay coming in. The stem of the Bombay cut off the stern of the Onaida. The ship was sinking rapidly, and guns of distress were immediately fired, but the Bombay steamed on her way and left the vessel to her doom. She went down, and all but one or two of her crew were drowned.

The captain of the Bombay gave no other reason for his conduct than that he had Lady Eyre, the wife of a distinguished British satrap, on board and did not wish to disturb her nerves with scenes of shipwreck. He was mobbed when he reached Yokohama, dismissed from the service, socially tabooed from that time on and died in disgrace a year or two later.

Henry Watterson, the distinguished Kentucky editor, is a candidate for governor of his state in 1903 and it is said he cherishes the ambition of becoming a presidential candidate in 1904. There is just one difficulty in the way of Col. Watterson's success,
and that is that he has ideas and expresses them freely. These ideas are generally far in advance of those of his party. There can be no accord between Bryanites, antis and Watterson,
the expansionist and sound money
man.

There are enough more railroads
and railroad business to employ 194, 000 more men than were employed
the year that McKinley was elected president. The pay rolls of the railroads are greater by $110,000,000 annually than they were at that time.
These facts, stated by Senator Depew
in an address at Buffalo, are too eloquent to require comment.

Those newspapers which are busily engaged in constructing the first annual message of President Roosevelt probably will not be bit surprised, when
the genuine document appears, to find it altogether different from what they have mapped out. They would like to pose as mind-readers, but past experience should prove to them that they can't.

Chairman Dick, after a visit to Washington, is said to have announced that the president is greatly interested in the Ohio campaign and very anxious to obtain a vote of confidence from the people of this state. Such a vote will strengthen the administration all over the country, and it will
be forthcoming.

An Ohio Democratic exchange observes that it is the duty of its party to keep up its warfare against a protective tariff. A most disagreeable and wearisome sort of duty, one would think, since the Democracy invariably gets licked when it tries to revive that issue.

Another gold mine has been discovered in Ohio. Unfortunately these mines never get beyond the discovery stage. The Ohio farmer who tills his

The board of health appears able to dispatch business in a business-like way when the city solicitor is present at its meetings. It should issue a standing invitation for him to attend.
That course would obviate the necessity of special meetings to revoke the action of preceding meetings.

The garbage question is now left
for council to deal with. Prompt and sensible action is demanded, and all citizens are looking to the city lawmakers for it. The question has been so fully discussed that further talk is superfluous. It is now time for action.

Those who are sending fruits and

OBITUARY.

Harry Fowler.

Harry Fowler, aged 24, died at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his widowed mother, four miles south of Chester, of consumption. He was a teacher and gave up his charge as instructor at the Hamilton school of Congo last spring on account of ill-health. Mr. Fowler went to Asheville, N. C., with the hope of benefit. He returned two months ago to die. He had studied at the Tri-
State normal and had a promising future. He leaves a mother, three brothers and two sisters. The funeral will be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Presbyterian church at Fairview.

AT THE THEATER

"Brother Against Brother" was produced at the Grand last night by the Carnegie Stock company to a large and appreciative audience. The performance was strictly high-class and gave splendid satisfaction. Harry L. Webb as "Gabriel Rastabau" made a decided hit, as did also Katharine Evans as "Martha Jane." Cora Wilmet handled a difficult part in a most pleasing manner and other members of the company did likewise.

Numerous specialties were introduced, which were in keeping with the performance. Miss Lulu May sang several new songs and received much merited applause. The songs were finely illustrated by the cinematograph.
Everybody was delighted with the show throughout.

The Tunnel Was Forgotten.
At Brussels the visitor is often struck by the extreme thinness of the earth covering the Braine le Comte tunnel and wonders why the common sense of the engineers who made the line did not direct them to continue the cutting and thus avoid a subterranean passage.

The mystery is thus explained: When railways were in their infancy, the Belgian government sent a party of engineers over to England to acquire experience in construction of the new iron highways, and on their return they were instructed to lay out the first railway in that enterprising little kingdom. The work was accordingly put in hand, but on its completion one
of the engineers exclaimed:
"Good gracious, we have forgotten
the tunnel!"

The consternation was general, especially when it was remembered that there was not a single line in England
but could boast of a tunnel. What was to be done? Nothing but to construct the long corridor at Braine le Comte,
and when it was finished the earth was put on top. The tunnel was the glory of the line.

POTTERY NEWS

Contractor Ed Cook, of East Liverpool, spent several hours in Columbus
Monday night while returning home
from Kokomo, Ind., where he repaired
a kiln at the pottery in that town. The plant is managed by William Coxon,
who is also a member of the firm, and is running full-handed. Some of the employees have taken positions at the new potteries in New Castle, but
the vacancies were filled almost as created by potters from Trenton and other points. Mr. Coxon pays occasional visits to East Liverpool. His first experience in the business was obtained in Trenton, where his father,
Jonathan Coxon, a well-known potter,
has been located for a great many years. The latter was half owner of the famous Ceramic Art pottery of Trenton until a few years ago.

Albert Shaw, of the East End, who is employed at the Severs plant, has
Saturday for Long Beach, Cal., where he will spend the winter with an uncle.

Thomas McKeon has resigned his position as sticker-up at the E. M.
Knowles plant and left yesterday afternoon for Sebring where he has accepted a place at the pressing bench.

William Greer is very sick at his

BRIGANDS THREATEN DEATH

To Captives, If Pursued—Miss Stone
Asked Stopping of Military Pursuit.

Constantinople, Oct. 16.—The Russian government has repeated its expression of a desire to assist the United States government by all practical means in rescuing Miss Stone.
The other powers are equally solicitous, but Russia is the best able to bring the necessary pressure to bear.
Messrs. Baird and Haskell, the missionaries, had not yet succeeded in getting into touch with the brigands or opening negotiations.

London, Oct. 16.—"The United States government will insist that Turkey immediately make good any deficit in the subscriptions for the ransom of Miss Stone," says the Constantinople correspondent of the Daily Telegraph, "and also refund the full amount subscribed."

"It is supposed that the brigands who captured Miss Stone have withdrawn into the interior of Macedonia in the direction of Nevrokop," says a dispatch to the Daily Telegraph from Sofia. "Former members of the Macedonian committee, who were arrested on suspicion of complicity denied before a magistrate any knowledge of the affair."

"Pastors Dimikroff and Zirkoff, with three female mission workers," says a dispatch from Vienna to the Daily Express, "have been killed by the band that kidnapped Miss Stone."

Further word has come from Miss Stone in the following letter, written from Macedonia to W. W. Peet, treasurer of the Turkish mission in Constantinople:

"My Honored Friend—I write to inform you that on the 3rd day of September I was captured by a great number of armed men—some 40—as I traveled from Bansko to Dumaala with about 12 teachers, students and others.

"They took with me for my companion Mrs. Catherine Tsika. The reason why they captured us is for a ransom. The price which they demand for us is 25,000 pounds, Turkish, which sum must be paid in gold, and this entirely without the knowledge of the Turkish and Bulgarian governments, within the term of 18 days from to-day. The illness of Mrs.
Tsika decided the limit.

"The men who captured us at first showed courtesy and consideration toward us, but now, since Turkish soldiers and Bashibazouks have begun to pursue us and the ransom is delayed, our condition is altogether different. I beg you to hasten sending the ransom demanded and
sending the ransom demanded and that as energetically as possible you will present to the Turkish government that it stop the pursuit of us by soldiers and Bashibazouks, otherwise we shall be killed by the people in whose hands we are.

"I pray you to communicate without delay the contents of this letter to the representative of the United States at the Porte and request his most serious co-operation.

"Pray for us. We are at peace with God.

"With hearty salutations, your friend,

"ELLEN M. STONE."

A CHANCE FOR MOLINEUX.

Court of Appeals Gives Accused Prisoner Another Trial—The Principal Reason.

Albany, N. Y., Oct. 16.—The court of appeals has granted Roland B.
Molineux a new trial.

Molineux was convicted of the murder of Katherine J. Adams in New York City, and sentenced to death.
The court grants a new trial on a prevailing opinion written by Judge Werner of Rochester, his principal ground being that the lower court erred in admitting evidence as to another alleged crime, the death of Barnett, and thus argued two issues.

The court gave out a condensed statement of the reasons for granting the new trial. It says, referring to the attempts to prove Molineux's writing:

"Handwriting as Evidence.
"That the genuineness of such writings must be established to the satisfaction of the court by common law evidence, and when that is done handwriting experts may compare the disputed writings with the genuine writings and give their opinion thereon, but they cannot select and establish the standards of comparison and then compare them with the disputed writings."

The only subject about which the members of the court differ in their opinions relates to the testimony introduced tending to show that Molineux caused the death of Barnett by the same method as that used in taking the life of Mrs. Adams. Three judges, Parker, Gray and Haught, hold that that evidence is admissible, in that the evidence in the Barnett case pointing toward Molineux tends to identify him as the person who killed Mrs. Adams while attempting to take the life of Cornish by means of that rare poison, known as cyanide of mercury.

Regarding the admission of the testimony regarding the Barnett case, the majority opinion says:

"The general rule of evidence applicable to criminal trials is that the State cannot prove against a defendant any crime not alleged in the indictment, either as a foundation for a separate punishment, or as aiding the proofs that he is guilty of the crime charged."

Motive Against Cornish.
"What was the motive assigned for the defendant's alleged attempt to kill Cornish?
Hatred, engendered by quarrels between them, in which Barnett took no part and of which, so far as the record shows, he had no knowledge. What was the motive which is said to have moved the defendant to kill Barnett? Jealousy caused by the former's intervention in the love affair of the former. The mere statement of these two motives suffices to show that they have no relation to each other and that the evidence which tends to prove the killing of Barnett throws no light upon the motive which actuated the attempt upon the life of Cornish."

After summarizing the theory of the prosecution that the murder of Mrs.
Adams was the result of a plan devised by the defendant to kill Cornish, by means of a rare and deadly poison concealed in a powder in common use as a remedy for trilling ailments, the court says:

"Throughout the length and breadth of the testimony relating to the death of Barnett there is not a suggestion of a fact, which throws any light upon the intent, with which the poison was sent to Cornish; or which serves to support or strengthen the inference as to intent, which may be drawn from the evidence tending to show that the defendant sent the poison to Cornish. The evidence tended to show that the defendant had the knowledge, skill and material to produce the poison, which was sent to Cornish, but he was not shown to be the only person possessed of this knowledge, skill and material. Indeed, it is common knowledge that there are many such persons. Therefore, the naked similarity of these crimes proves nothing."

News Review "Wants" bring quick results.

Henry Watterson, the distinguished Kentucky editor, is a candidate for governor of his state in 1903 and it is said he cherishes the ambition of becoming a presidential candidate in 1904. There is just one difficulty in the way of Col. Watterson's success,
and that is that he has ideas and expresses them freely. These ideas are generally far in advance of those of
his party. There can be no accord between Bryanites, antis and Watterson,
the expansionist and sound money
man.

There are enough more railroads
and railroad business to employ 194,
000 more men than were employed
the year that McKinley was elected president. The pay rolls of the railroads are greater by $110,000,000 annually than they were at that time.
These facts, stated by Senator Dewey
in an address at Buffalo, are too eloquent to require comment.

Those newspapers which are busily engaged in constructing the first annual message of President Roosevelt probably will not be bit surprised, when
the genuine document appears, to find
it altogether different from what they

can't.

Chairman Dick, after a visit to

be forthcoming.

An Ohio Democratic exchange ob-

issue.

standing invitation for him to attend.
That course would obviate the neces-

The garbage question is now left
for council to deal with. Prompt and

sensible action is demanded, and all citizens are looking to the city lawmakers for it. The question has been so fully discussed that further talk
is superfluous. It is now time for action.

OBITUARY.

Harry Fowler.

Harry Fowler, aged 24, died at 4
o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of his widowed mother, four miles south of Chester, of consumption. He was a teacher and gave up
his charge as instructor at the Hamilton school of Congo last spring on account of ill-health. Mr. Fowler went to Asheville, N. C., with the hope of benefit. He returned two months ago
to die. He had studied at the Tri-
State normal and had a promising future. He leaves a mother, three broth-
be held at 11 a. m. tomorrow in the Presbyterian church at Fairview.

splendid satisfaction. Harry L. Webb

as "Martha Jane." Cora Wilmet handled a difficult part in a most pleasing manner and other members of the company did likewise.

Numerous specialties were introduced, which were in keeping with the performance. Miss Lulu May sang
several new songs and received much merited applause. The songs were
finely illustrated by the cinematograph.
Everybody was delighted with the
show throughout.

The Tunnel Was Forgotten.

At Brussels the visitor is often struck
by the extreme thinness of the earth covering the Braine la Comte tunnel
and wonders why the common sense of
the engineers who made the line did
not direct them to continue the cutting
and thus avoid a subterranean passage.

The mystery is thus explained: When railways were in their infant infancy, the Belgian government sent a party of engineers over to England to acquire experience in construction of the new iron highways, and on their return they were instructed to lay out the first railway in that enterprising little kingdom. The work was accordingly
put in hand, but on its completion one
of the engineers exclaimed:
"Good gracious, we have forgotten
the tunnel!"

The consternation was general, especially when it was remembered that there was not a single line in England
but could boast of a tunnel. What was to be done? Nothing but to construct the long corridor at Braine la Comte,
and when it was finished the earth was put on top. The tunnel was the glory of the line.

Contractor Ed Cook, of East Liverpool, spent several hours in Columbus
Monday night while returning home
from Kokomo, Ind., where he repaired
a kiln at the pottery in that town. The
plant is managed by William Coxon,
who is also a member of the firm, and is running full-handed. Some of the employees have taken positions at the new potteries in New Castle, but
the vacancies were filled almost as created by potters from Trenton and
other points. Mr. Coxon pays occasional visits to East Liverpool. His first experience in the business was obtained in Trenton, where his father,
Jonathan Coxon, a well-known potter,
has been located for a great many years. The latter was half owner of the famous Ceramic Art pottery of Trenton until a few years ago.

Albert Shaw, of the East End, who
is employed at the Severs plant, has
Saturday for Long Beach, Cal., where he will spend the winter with an uncle.

Thomas McKeon has resigned his position as sticker-up at the E. M.

The other powers are equally solici-

"Look here," said a Suffolk farmer to a friend, "I'm going to kill my pig, but I owe so much pork to my neighbors that I shall have none left for myself if I pay it all back. What would you do?"

The farmer followed instructions, and the kind friend watched his chance and stole the pig. The poor farmer came around next morning to tell what had happened.

"Somebody's stolen my pig!" he cried.

"Good!" said the friend. "Stick to it, and the neighbors 'll believe you, sure enough."

"But it was stolen, I tell you!"

"Excellent!" quoth the friend. "Just you stick to the tale."

"You confounded ass!" yelled the farmer. "Don't you understand? It was really stolen!"

"Superb!" laughed the delighted friend. "You ought to have been an actor, so you ought."

BLOODY SHOOTING AFFRAY.

Four Men Were Injured in a Fight at Plaingrove, Near New Castle, Pennsylvania.

New Castle, Pa., Oct. 16.—An affray, in which 4 were wounded occurred last night three miles from Plaingrove, this county, at Camp No. 2, of the construction gang which is building the Pennsylvania railroad extension from Leesburg to Courtney's Mills, Butler county.

The Wounded.

HARRY B. MITCHELL, general superintendent; shot in the right leg, seriously.

M. C. RIGGAN, foreman; seriously wounded in the back by buckshot.

W. L. HUNTER, mine pit boss; shot in both legs.

WILLIAM LUSTER, negro laborer; wounded in shoulder and neck, critical.

Camp Cook Started Trouble.

The affray occurred just at dark, and was caused by Ed McRath, the negro camp cook. He was intoxicated, and when Foreman Riggan visited the kitchen to give orders McRath became insulting.

He accused Riggan of eating all the preserves. The cook struck Riggan and they grappled, rolling on the ground before being separated by Daniel Hewitt, the camp blacksmith.

Riggan then walked away a short distance and McRath ran for a shotgun, returning before Riggan had proceeded far. The negro shot the foreman twice in the back, the shots taking effect in his shoulder and neck. The reports of the shotgun attracted a crowd.

McRath for a time stood the crowd back by threats to shoot. As they pressed nearer he leveled his gun and fired. Mitchell and Hunter were wounded in the legs. Before McRath had time to reload the excited crowd broke upon him. He turned and ran around the cook tent, then turned toward the woods nearby. However, he is crippled and would have been captured soon had it not been for the devotion of his partner, William Luster, a Virginia negro.

Pursuers Were Deceived.

Luster ran around the cook tent with McRath and then ran at right angles with the cook. The crowd did not notice the deception and pursued Luster, while McRath escaped.

Finally Luster was brought to the ground by revolver shots. The crowd left Luster lying and turned to hunt McRath, but he escaped. Luster is the most seriously wounded, and his injuries may prove fatal. The bail have not been extracted from his neck and recovery is uncertain.

Armed parties are searching the woods for McRath. He came from Morgantown, North Carolina.

The camp is the same place at which Attorney Norrington was murdered three months ago by a negro desperado. Many of the Unit negroes and some lawless characters are working on the construction of the Leesburg branch railroad, and many crimes are being laid at their door.

Fire Among the Redwoods.

Perhaps the most startling phenomenon of the fire was the quick death of childlike sequoias only a century or two ago, says John Muir in The Atlantic. In the midst of the other comparatively slow and steady fire work one of these tall, beautiful saplings, leafy and branchy, would be seen blazing up suddenly all in one heaving, booming, passionate flame reaching from the ground to the top of the tree and fifty to a hundred feet or more above it, with a smoke column bending forward and streaming away on the upper free flowing wind.

To Cure Round Shoulders.

In the case of round shoulders the muscles of the back are likely to stiffen from disuse. A special exercise to get them into a limber condition seems to be necessary. Stretch out and down with the arms until they nearly touch the floor, bending back in like manner. To successfully accomplish the latter sit on a stool before an upright piano or heavy desk, plant your knees firmly against the furniture until you have a good support, then slowly bend backward with your head pointed over your head. At first you think you will surely crack in half, so stiff are the muscles, but astonishingly soon comes the pliability, and as it is impossible to fall your progress is easy and rapid. This exercise if persisted in will straighten out a curved spine, but it must be done gently and with patience, because the tendons in the back are delicate and must not be coerced.

CHESTER BRANCH FORMED

How Things Grow in Hawaii.

How great are the possibilities of Hawaii as a fruit and vegetable growing country will be understood when it becomes known that four crops of potatoes have been produced in succession on the same piece of land within twelve months. Radishes become edible in ten days after sowing. Strawberry vines bear fruit all the year. The berries are of the finest flavor.

Cabbage grows all the year, and it apparently makes no difference whether it is planted in the spring, summer, autumn or winter. Parsley once sown grows forever apparently. Lima beans continue to grow and bear for over a year, and they have to be gathered every week after starting to bear. Cucumbers bear the entire year, and so do tomatoes, which, with proper attention, bear for years. Raspberries bear for six months.

Pineapples come into bearing when the plants are four months old and bear in abundance for years. Lettuce can be planted at any time, and it develops quickly. The same is true of celery.—Fruit Trade Journal.

Greek Marriage Customs.

The marriage in Constantinople of an Englishman and a Greek woman entails three wedding ceremonies. To be legal it must be performed at the consulate. The couple are legally married there the first day, and on the next a church ceremony is performed in the English church, while the Greek religious ceremony which follows is celebrated at the bride's home. The last is the only legal form of marriage as far as the bride is concerned.

In the Greek ceremony no ring is used, but the best man places a wreath bound with white satin ribbons on the heads of bride and bridegroom. Then, while the priest is pronouncing the words of the service, the couple walk around him in a circle three times, holding candles, the best man at intervals changing the wreaths from one to the other. When all is over, the friends throw small coins or tokens of gold and silver over the wedded pair, and a general scramble ensues among those present to secure the tokens.

Piling It On.

The idler never is satisfied. To take his ease and shirk. But takes it on him to deride. The simple folk who work.—Washington Star.

"So your son is learning a trade?"
"Yes. He is to be a novelist."—Life.

A Line to the Fish.

Fishes make no noise. Yet doubtless you know that codfish call. And oyster stew.—Chicago News.

A DREARY EXISTENCE

THE LONELINESS OF THE ENGLISH LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS.

At the Bishop Station the Sentinel That Lights the Waves Lives in Almost Utter Isolation—A Service With Few Enticing Features.

During the storms that rage intermittently around the English coast in winter the landsman's mind turns in sympathy toward those who in ship or lifeboat are fighting the waves for dear life. But how often does he give one thought to the men who immerse themselves in the lighthouses that stud the coast?

I would rather spend my life in a penal settlement than be a lighthouse keeper," declared a man to the writer after a visit to the Bishop lighthouse, off the Cornish coast. "A convict does see a little of the world he lives in, but a lighthouse keeper sees nothing but a dreary expanse of water. I am not surprised that many of them should lose their mental balance."

The visitor to the Bishop lighthouse did not overcolor the picture. It was only the other day that one read of the Longships lighthouse, also off the coast of Cornwall, having been completely isolated for many weeks in consequence of fearful storms. The keepers had been reduced to smoking coffee, h ps and tea leaves, though, fortunately, they had not wanted for food.

The keepers of the famous Eddystone lighthouse not infrequently find themselves in a similar predicament. In a gale the waves that buffet themselves against this wonderful monument to the engineering skill of the country are of such stupendous magnitude that they rise to a height of 200 feet and sweep right over the lantern. To those cooped up inside the sound of these waves is like that of a battery of guns at close quarters. "At such times the house shakes like a tree with a man on the top of it," was the graphic description of one who spent many years of his life there.

The new Eddystone is the roomiest and most comfortable of all our rock lighthouses. A sectional view of it shows the various compartments, commencing at the bottom with the water tank; then the entrance, the two oil receptacles, the storeroom, the crane, the living apartment, the low light, the bedroom and the service room in the order named. Formerly only two keepers were employed in the lighthouse, but a grim incident resulted in their number being increased. One of the two men died. So fierce ran the seas that the remaining keeper could not get the body of his late comrade to the shore. For a month the tempestuous weather continued, and for a month the surviving keeper lived alone with the body as his only companion. He was afraid to cast it into the waves, for he might be accused of murder.

Keepers of rock lighthouses do not last long. The incessant pounding of the waves against the building, the loneliness, the want of fresh air and exercise reduce the men to a state of nervousness that is sometimes pitiful to behold. They require a fortnight's leave every six weeks, but this liberal allowance does little to improve their physical state. A medical man whose duty it is to pay periodical visits to one of these lighthouses confesses that there is no remedy for the ills peculiar to the keepers except retirement.

The utter isolation of the silent sentinels of our coast is well illustrated by the case of the Bishop lighthouse aforementioned, which stands right out in the Atlantic. Not once in a year is it calm enough for the superintendent to land his stores at the lighthouse steps. They have to be hauled up by means of a windlass from above. A visitor bold enough to visit the place is "admitted" in a similar way. He places one foot in a noose at the end of a rope, which is thrown down to his boat, and, gripping the rope firmly above his head, he is drawn up to the "see off," as the phin around the lighthouse is called. Thence he climbs up a perpendicular ladder to the door of the house.

Superstition adds a terror to the life of the men in this lighthouse, for the first structure was washed away bodily, and the keepers believe that the rock is haunted. A fear of a different kind keeps the men of Muckle Flugga lighthouse, the most northern point of Scotland, on the tenterhooks of a terrible suspense. On three occasions the huge black rock on which the lighthouse stands has been shaken by an earthquake.

There is something comical, though characteristic of the stiff necked Scot, in a story which comes from a neighboring lighthouse which is the charge of two families. They live on a desert island. From year end to year end they never see a visitor except the man who brings their stores. Eighteen months ago the heads of the two families quarreled, and ever since they have ceased to speak.

At the shore lighthouse of Ushinish the keeper's family has to travel 40 miles to "kirk." It is no reflection on their piety to add that they are not regular attendants.

A lighthouse keeper receives a maximum wage of £75 a year, out of which he has to supply his own rations. These consist of such unappetizing edibles as tinned beef and hard biscuits, usually washed down with weak tea and condensed milk. No intoxicating liquors are allowed.—London Mail.

The children of different countries have different tastes, but tin snails are wanted all over the world.

HOME MADE LARD.

The ordinary lard sold by the grocer is a very poor article when compared to this which we offer. This is produced from specially selected well fed animals and has a most excellent flavor. The process of rendering is carried on in absolutely clean rooms and utensils, thus insuring PERFECT PURITY. We guarantee the quality of this lard to be high grade. Sold by the pound or in 3, 5 and 10 lb. pails.

The affray occurred just at dark, and was caused by Ed McRath, the negro camp cook, who was intoxicated, and when Foreman Riggan visited the kitchen to give orders McRath became insulting.

He accused Riggan of eating all the preserves. The cook struck Riggan and they grappled, rolling on the ground before being separated by Daniel Hewitt, the camp blacksmith.

Riggan then walked away a short distance and McRath ran for a shotgun, returning before Riggan had proceeded far. The negro shot the foreman twice in the back, the shots taking effect in his shoulder and neck. The reports of the shotgun attracted a crowd.

McRath for a time stood the crowd back by threats to shoot. As they pressed nearer he leveled his gun and fired. Mitchell and Hunter were wounded in the legs. Before McRath had time to reload the excited crowd broke upon him. He turned and ran around the cook tent, then turned toward the woods nearby. However, he is crippled and would have been captured soon had it not been for the devotion of his partner, William Luster, a Virginia negro.

Pursuers Were Deceived.

Luster ran around the cook tent with McRath and then ran at right angles with the cook. The crowd did not notice the deception and pursued Luster, while McRath escaped.

Finally Luster was brought to the ground by revolver shots. The crowd left Luster lying and turned to hunt McRath, but he escaped. Luster is the most seriously wounded and his injuries may prove fatal. The fatal have not been extracted from his neck and recovery is uncertain.

The three wounded white men are all getting along well except Riggan, whose condition is somewhat doubtful.

Armed parties are searching the woods for McRath. He came from Morgantown, North Carolina.

The camp is the same place at which Attorney Norrington was murdered three months ago by a negro desperado. Many of the Unit negroes and some lawless characters are working on the construction of the Leesburg branch railroad, and many crimes are being laid at their door.

Fire Among the Redwoods.

Perhaps the most startling phenomenon of the fire was the quick death of childlike sequoias only a century or two ago, says John Muir in The Atlantic. In the midst of the other comparatively slow and steady fire work one of these tall, beautiful saplings, leafy and branchy, would be seen blazing up suddenly all in one heaving, booming, passionate flame reaching from the ground to the top of the tree and fifty to a hundred feet or more above it, with a smoke column bending forward and streaming away on the upper free flowing wind.

To burn these green trees a strong fire of dry wood beneath them is required to send up a current of air hot enough to distill inflammable gases from the leaves and sprays; then, instead of the lower limbs gradually catching fire and igniting the next and next in succession, the whole tree seems to explode almost simultaneously, and with awful roaring and throbbing a round tapering flame shoots up 200 or 300 feet, and in a second or two is quenched, leaving the green spire a black dead mast bristled and roughened with down curling boughs.

To Cure Round Shoulders.

In the case of round shoulders the muscles of the back are likely to stiffen from disuse. A special exercise to get them into a limber condition seems to be necessary. Stretch out and down with the arms until they nearly touch the floor, bending back in like manner. To successfully accomplish the latter sit on a stool before an upright piano or heavy desk, plant your knees firmly against the furniture until you have a good support, then slowly bend backward with your hand pointed over your head. At first you think you will surely crack in half, so stiff are the muscles, but astonishingly soon comes the pliability, and as it is impossible to fall your progress is easy and rapid. This exercise if persisted in will straighten out a curved spine, but it must be done gently and with patience, because the tendons in the back are delicate and must not be coerced.

New York Savings And Loan Company Organizes on the Southside.

A Chester branch of the New York Savings & Loan company was organized last evening at Oscar Allison's place of business. Two hundred shares of stock were subscribed.

Officers of the branch concern were elected as follows:

This evening, at the home of the prospective bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Taylor, on Jackson street, will occur the marriage of Miss Annie L. Taylor and Mr. Clarence Van Meter.

How Things Grow in Hawaii.

How great are the possibilities of Hawaii as a fruit and vegetable growing country will be understood when it becomes known that four crops of potatoes have been produced in succession on the same piece of land within twelve months. Radishes become edible in ten days after sowing. Strawberry vines bear fruit all the year. The berries are of the finest flavor.

Cabbage grows all the year, and it apparently makes no difference whether it is planted in the spring, summer, autumn or winter. Parsley once sown grows forever apparently. Lima beans continue to grow and bear for over a year, and they have to be gathered every week after starting to bear. Cucumbers bear the entire year, and so do tomatoes, which, with proper attention, bear for years. Raspberries bear for six months.

Pineapples come into bearing when the plants are four months old and bear in abundance for years. Lettuce can be planted at any time, and it develops quickly. The same is true of celery.—Fruit Trade Journal.

Greek Marriage Customs.

The marriage in Constantinople of an Englishman and a Greek woman entails three wedding ceremonies. To be legal it must be performed at the consulate. The couple are legally married there the first day, and on the next a church ceremony is performed in the English church, while the Greek religious ceremony which follows is celebrated at the bride's home. The last is the only legal form of marriage as far as the bride is concerned.

In the Greek ceremony no ring is used, but the best man places a wreath bound with white satin ribbons on the heads of bride and bridegroom. Then, while the priest is pronouncing the words of the service, the couple walk around him in a circle three times, holding candles, the best man at intervals changing the wreaths from one to the other. When all is over, the friends throw small coins or tokens of gold and silver over the wedded pair, and a general scramble ensues among those present to secure the tokens.

A DREARY EXISTENCE

THE LONELINESS OF THE ENGLISH LIGHTHOUSE KEEPERS.

During the storms that rage intermittently around the English coast in winter the landsman's mind turns in sympathy toward those who in ship or lifeboat are fighting the waves for dear life. But how often does he give one thought to the men who immerse themselves in the lighthouses that stud the coast?

I would rather spend my life in a penal settlement than be a lighthouse keeper," declared a man to the writer after a visit to the Bishop lighthouse, off the Cornish coast. "A convict does see a little of the world he lives in, but a lighthouse keeper sees nothing but a dreary expanse of water. I am not surprised that many of them should lose their mental balance."

The visitor to the Bishop lighthouse did not overcolor the picture. It was only the other day that one read of the Longships lighthouse, also off the coast of Cornwall, having been completely isolated for many weeks in consequence of fearful storms. The keepers had been reduced to smoking coffee, h ps and tea leaves, though, fortunately, they had not wanted for food.

The keepers of the famous Eddystone lighthouse not infrequently find themselves in a similar predicament. In a gale the waves that buffet themselves against this wonderful monument to the engineering skill of the country are of such stupendous magnitude that they rise to a height of 200 feet and sweep right over the lantern. To those cooped up inside the sound of these waves is like that of a battery of guns at close quarters. "At such times the house shakes like a tree with a man on the top of it," was the graphic description of one who spent many years of his life there.

The new Eddystone is the roomiest and most comfortable of all our rock lighthouses. A sectional view of it shows the various compartments, commencing at the bottom with the water tank; then the entrance, the two oil receptacles, the storeroom, the crane, the living apartment, the low light, the bedroom and the service room in the order named. Formerly only two keepers were employed in the lighthouse, but a grim incident resulted in their number being increased. One of the two men died. So fierce ran the seas that the remaining keeper could not get the body of his late comrade to the shore. For a month the tempestuous weather continued, and for a month the surviving keeper lived alone with the body as his only companion. He was afraid to cast it into the waves, for he might be accused of murder.

Keepers of rock lighthouses do not last long. The incessant pounding of the waves against the building, the loneliness, the want of fresh air and exercise reduce the men to a state of nervousness that is sometimes pitiful to behold. They require a fortnight's leave every six weeks, but this liberal allowance does little to improve their physical state. A medical man whose duty it is to pay periodical visits to one of these lighthouses confesses that there is no remedy for the ills peculiar to the keepers except retirement.

The utter isolation of the silent sentinels of our coast is well illustrated by the case of the Bishop lighthouse aforementioned, which stands right out in the Atlantic. Not once in a year is it calm enough for the superintendent to land his stores at the lighthouse steps. They have to be hauled up by means of a windlass from above. A visitor bold enough to visit the place is "admitted" in a similar way. He places one foot in a noose at the end of a rope, which is thrown down to his boat, and, gripping the rope firmly above his head, he is drawn up to the "see off," as the phiz around the lighthouse is called. Thence he climbs up a perpendicular ladder to the door of the house.

Superstition adds a terror to the life of the men in this lighthouse, for the first structure was washed away bodily, and the keepers believe that the rock is haunted. A fear of a different kind keeps the men of Muckle Flugga lighthouse, the most northern point of Scotland, on the tenterhooks of a terrible suspense. On three occasions the huge black rock on which the lighthouse stands has been shaken by an earthquake.

There is something comical, though characteristic of the stiff necked Scot, in a story which comes from a neighboring lighthouse which is the charge of two families. They live on a desert island. From year end to year end they never see a visitor except the man who brings their stores. Eighteen months ago the heads of the two families quarreled, and ever since they have ceased to speak.

At the shore lighthouse of Ushinish the keeper's family has to travel 40 miles to "kirk." It is no reflection on their piety to add that they are not regular attendants.

A lighthouse keeper receives a maximum wage of £75 a year, out of which he has to supply his own rations. These consist of such unappetizing edibles as tinned beef and hard biscuits, usually washed down with weak tea and condensed milk. No intoxicating liquors are allowed.—London Mail.

The children of different countries have different tastes, but tin swords are wanted all over the world.

Anarchists Should Be Declared Insane

By JOSIAH QUINCY, Ex-Mayor Of Boston

ANARCHY is distinguished from every other doctrine or proposed reform in that it seeks to destroy utterly, not to amend. It is an attack upon the basis of society as the world has known it since the very beginnings of civilization. It may be adapted to the conditions of some other world, but all human experience proves that it is inapplicable to those of this world. Therefore, while we certainly would not interfere with its advocacy unless experience showed that it was dangerous to law and order, I DO NOT SEE WHY WE SHOULD REFRAIN FROM DEALING WITH AN ADMITTED MENACE BECAUSE A FEW PHILOSOPHERS WOULD BE PREVENTED FROM EXPRESSING ALL THEIR THOUGHTS. Even the theoretical rights of the few must give way, if necessary, to secure the interests of the many.

The idea of dealing with the advocate of practical anarchy as an insane person, rather than as a criminal, has a good deal to recommend it. The laws defining insanity might be adapted to fit his case, and this might act as a deterrent more powerfully than a conviction for crime or misdemeanor.

Some Mistaken Mourning Customs

By Rev. Dr. BICKNELL, Pastor of the First Universalist Church, Cambridge, Mass.

HAVING no sympathy with the oft expressed idea that by some mysterious method the several parts of the body will be reunited in a purified condition and exist in another state of being, I can see no use in bestowing upon it any special attention, only such as decency, a regard for the health and welfare of the living and the natural promptings of the hearts of the immediate afflicted ones would suggest. Believing it a garment, an overcoat for the man, something necessary for the protection of the spiritual during its activity in earthly life, when its work is done it should be returned to its original elements in the easiest possible manner. It is not allied to the beyond in any way. That there is a resurrection, and by this I mean a birth of the soul—the man—with a higher life, I do not doubt. MY FAITH IN IMMORTALITY IS ALMOST KNOWLEDGE, but not for the material body. That dies, but the spiritual never dies. Death is but a change in the manner of living.

Hence, regarding our funeral services, as related to the material, I do not hesitate to invade the so called sacred customs because there is really no sacredness which should be regarded as such. We shudder and mourn when loved ones are taken. But a crushing grief is the antithesis of the confidence of Paul when he exclaimed, "To die is gain!"

I have little sympathy for outward manifestation. The close drawn curtains, every ray of sunshine being excluded, the heavy draperies, the slow, measured step, the methods of constantly announcing a calamity to the bereaved, are all against the true spirit of death. Angels of comfort do not come in the dark.

All measures for preserving the body, such as embalming (unless for valid reasons and for a short time), airtight and metallic caskets or heavy wooden ones should be abolished.

THE MORE PERISHABLE THE CASKET THE BETTER. DON'T CHEAT MOTHER EARTH OUT OF HER OWN.

Why the Stage Often Demoralizes the Society Actress

By Mrs. KENDAL, English Actress

WHEN the society woman adopts the stage as a profession, her example in conduct, dress and manners ought logically to be of inestimable value to her new associates. In the majority of cases, however, it is NOT so. Whether an actress views her profession as a profession sensibly or not and behaves in it sensibly or not usually just marks the difference between the woman born and bred to her work and the woman who has been used to another sphere in life and has gone on the stage in later years.

IT IS A HARD THING AND A REGRETTABLE THING TO HAVE TO SAY, BUT THE STAGE HAS MORE OFTEN THAN NOT A DEMORALIZING EFFECT UPON THE WOMAN WHO TAKES TO IT WHEN HER GIRLHOOD IS PAST AND WHO HAS HAD NO PRACTICAL ACQUAINTANCE WITH IT BEFOREHAND.

By "demoralizing effect" I mean a certain degeneracy into mere trickiness of dress, speech and manner, an apparent WANT OF SELF RESPECT that may easily belie the woman's true inclinations. I know an instance of a charming woman, used to the highest and best society, who the moment she obtained an engagement with a theatrical company FLUNG OFF EVERY CONVENTION and every restraint short of actual misconduct. When remonstrated with, her astonishment was genuine and great. She explained with tears in her eyes that she thought she could be "Bohemian" with impunity.

CHAPTER IV. AT "L'ESPERANCE."

L'ESPERANCE was a fair domain of 1,800 acres, which, with slaves, live stock, mills, gins and implements, had descended to Horace Oakfell from his mother at her death in 1837. She as sole heir had inherited from her father, Colonel Bixlow. A thousand acres were under fence and in culture of sugar, cotton and corn; the remainder was woodland. A yield of two hogheads of sugar and five barrels of molasses per acre by the open kettle process of reduction then in vogue and 500 pounds of lint cotton to a like area attested the prodigious fertility of the fields.

Oakfell's father endured widowhood a year and married Fidele Gaspard, a Spanish looking girl of 16, daughter of Antoine Gaspard, who, it was said, had escaped from Paris with a price on his head after the fall of Danton and who was remembered as a man of cruel aspect, taciturn and furtive, as one haunted by a terrible fear or horrible memory. He was shiftless and poor, but his daughter was humble, pious and beautiful. She was mistress of "L'Esperance" six years, ministering to her stepson as to a superior being, and on her deathbed prayerfully besought his interest and protection for her own little boy, Evariste, whom she left at the dependent age of 5 years. Mme. Fidele was universally loved and by none with greater fervor than by Horace. The fullness of his boyish affection he transferred to the half brother, now like himself motherless, and generously assumed responsibility for his welfare. The demise of their father in 1854 gave to this assumption the character and obligations of actuality.

Evariste was dark and beautiful as his mother. His figure was slight and exquisite, with hands and feet small and delicate, like a woman's. Neither the squirrel nor the swallow surpassed him in agility and gracefulness, but his manner was undemonstrative, secretive, and, avoiding playmates, he was ever content to be alone. His eyes were black, his lips thin and firm.

To these sons the father had left nothing but a debt owed in Kentucky for blooded horses, which Horace speedily discharged. Evariste was portionless; his brother bade him consider himself half owner of all the estate and assured him that partition should be made on his attaining majority, or as soon thereafter as he might deem it desirable, and made unstinted expenditure for his maintenance and education. The elder's fraternal love was sobered by paternal solicitude relieved of all austerity. The difference between the ages of the two was five years, Evariste being 19 when Horace was sent to the legislature.

The home was now presided over by the Widow Wyley, whose long experience as the wife of an overseer had given her a knowledge of the negro character which enabled her to rule efficiently and kindly. Thrift and neatness came naturally from her Dutch mother, as did also her passion for cows and bees. Her face was big and red, and so was her heart; her hair was white and strong, and so was her nature. Binker Wyley, her stalwart son, was the abstemious, tireless overseer, who had announced on taking charge that the lash was only for oxen, mules and dogs and to whose shrewd, frugal management was due the fact that the prosperity of "L'Esperance" was second to that of no plantation in the parish of Avoyelles, with the possible exception of Baldouine's, on Bayou des Glaives. The dwelling was a brick structure of two stories, with broad, covered verandas projecting from the second in front and rear. On the ground floor, which was tiled, were at one side of a wide hall a dining room and housekeeper's sanctum, at the other an office, library and medicine store, in which were kept considerable quantities of medicaments of approved use on large plantations. The second story contained parlor and sleeping apartments, high ceilinged and spacious, separated by a hall corresponding with the one below and reached by exterior stairways piercing the verandas. The furniture was heavy, old and rich. An acre set in pecan, walnut and fig trees and inclosed by a high white fence made a shady lawn between the house and the public road along the bank of Bayou Claire. On the left were the overseer's house and plantation stores, a hundred yards farther the negro quarters, barns, stables and cattle sheds; on a bend of the bayou was the steam cotton gin and at the rear of the fields the brick sugar mill, with long, low roofed purgery and massive chimney for bagasse burning.

The warm day was closing. Oakfell sat at the western window of the office near a table on which lay written reports which had been left with him by the overseer. From a perusal of them he had turned to a volume of English poetry and read these lines:

He finds his fellow guilty of a skin
Not colored like his own and, having power
To enforce the wrong, for such a worthy cause
Dooms and devotes him as his lawful prey.

And what man, seeing this
And hang his head to think himself a man?

The book was closed upon his finger, and with lowered eyes he pondered

these thoughts when the open doorway was filled by the generous figure of Mrs. Wyley.

"Mr. Oakfell, where is Evariste to day?" she asked. "I have not seen him since morning."

"He went to attend the races at Man sura, I believe," Oakfell replied. "You will not, I hope," she said, settling herself comfortably in a rocker, "think me meddlesome if I question the propriety of one so young frequenting such gatherings, where gambling, drinking, profanity and sometimes homicide are the features. I forbade them to Binker. Evariste goes to them so often." The old lady's manner evinced the sincerity of her anxiety.

"I appreciate your interest and desire you always to speak your thoughts without restraint on any subject which may concern my brother," said Oakfell. "In this instance, however, I think you need have no apprehension. Horse racing, you know, is expressly encouraged by our law, which puts betting at it on an equal footing with other contracts. It has received the countenance of our best citizens and has thus had its respectability preserved. Were such as Evariste to absent themselves the turf would soon degenerate to a mere gambling affair and contest of chicanery. So long as honor rules the track the excitement is healthful to men. I have no misgiving of Evariste. He is thoughtful and prudent beyond his years, has a perfect control over himself, which I envy him, and his spirit is too high and proud to yield to a low temptation or to be led by an unworthy example. My faith in him is perfect, and I love him as if he were my son."

"How blessed he is to have such a brother," said Mrs. Wyley, her fears for the one forgotten in her admiration of the other.

"There he is now!" exclaimed Oakfell, rising and going to the door. "Was there ever such a little man beauty as he? And he is so free from vanity that I do not believe he is at all aware of his good looks."

Evariste had alighted from his foaming horse at the gate and, having thrown the bridle to a negro boy, was walking up the bricked path to the house with the easy step and calm air of one returning from a short and leisurely stroll in a shady grove, his regular breathing betraying no sign of the hard run of 11 miles he had given the panting beast now being led to the stables. And Horace's tribute of unconsciousness of self was scarcely sustained by the faultlessly fitting suit, unflecked collar and fashionably adjusted neckscarf, the dainty shoes and carefully oiled locks resting on his shoulders in a glossy black roll. And a suspicion of dandiness might have had confirmation in the delicate perfume scattered from his hat, which as he passed it across his brow.

"How was the sport today, my boy?" Horace asked cheerily as Evariste entered the room.

"One excellent half mile race between Quillebert's Charlotte Corday and Judge Elgee's Belle Cheney," said Evariste. "The others were only ordinary."

"Quite brisk. The odds were in favor of Belle Cheney. I took Charlotte Corday and won $50. She came in by a neck. Leonidas Latlials backed the Elgee mare and lost heavily. Father Galotte parted with some of his tithes on the same risk. Somebody told Elgee that his jockey had been tampered with by Quillebert, and he swore he would kill them both if the charge could be proved. For a time it looked as if some blood might be let, but friends interfered, and the matter quieted down."

"Who rode Charlotte Corday?" Horace inquired.

"Quillebert's yellow boy Leon. By the way, brother," said Evariste, "Quillebert got into a boastful vein when his mare came in winner. He said he had set in to beat Belle Cheney and knew from the beginning he would do it and declared that when he made up his mind to a thing nobody in Avoyelles could overmatch him. Little Pl Ferrier spoke up and asked how about you electing Estelle Latlials godmother of the bell. He said it was not you that did it. Father Galotte asserted it was you; that he had it on good authority. Quillebert was stunned. He had never suspected that you had a hand in that. He became furious and I believe was about to relieve himself of some uncomplimentary remarks about you when he caught my eye looking steadily at him and concluded to bottle his rage. But I never saw so ferocious an expression settle upon a man's countenance as that which came over Quillebert's as he turned away. I fear he is your mortal enemy from this time on. Beware of him, brother."

"He is a bad man and hurtful to the community," said Oakfell, "but he is a coward and need not be feared, only watched. I very much regret my name was mentioned in connection with the contest over the christening of the bell. It was quite contrary to my wish."

"If you had seen how delighted Estelle was when her grandfather told her what Father Galotte had said, your regret would not be so poignant."

"Did you see her? Where?"

Estelle's eyes sparkled and her face flushed with pleasure at these encomiums upon you, and she charged me with so many pretty messages of gratitude to you that my horse was blown up with the weight of them. When her face lights up in that way, it is radiant beyond compare. I am sure at 20 she will be the loveliest woman in Louisiana."

"Boy, boy," said Horace, smiling. "you are becoming excited, going into a rapture. Miss Latlials must indeed be a vision to move you thus from your famous imperturbability. Calm yourself, my little Evariste. It is some time yet before you will be 21 and still longer before Estelle will be 20."

"From the signs of today," said Evariste, with a tinge of bitterness in his voice, "you are the one interested in her twentieth birthday, not I."

"Well, supper is by no means so far off as that," interposed Mrs. Wyley good humoredly, "and if you will hasten to your room, Evariste, you will get the dust of the road brushed off you before I have the bell rung."

As the young man, acting upon this reminder, disappeared into the house his brother remarked:

"What a boon it is to be gifted to live the fullness of life as that boy does. Though of grave and sedate exterior, his whole being vibrates in sympathy with the life around him. Every breath he inhales is a draft of sparkling wine to another man. His sleep is but the opiate effect of the day's joy; his eyes close in thankfulness for the day that has passed and open in eagerness for the day that begins. Apparently impassive, he is keenly observant of and responsive to every event, possessing a marvelous power of seizing and assimilating what is pleasant and rejecting what is disagreeable. He delights in the graceful spinning through the air of the falling leaf, but will not look at it when it has touched the dust, and with all his air of unconcern he is a philosopher, quick to adjust men and things and give them their proper estimate."

"If I heard another speak in this way without naming the person, I would understand him to describe Mr. Horace Oakfell rather than Evariste," Mrs. Wyley remarked.

"No, no!" said Oakfell. "My temperament is too opaque. Everything affecting it throws a shadow. I anticipate dangers, I brood over events, I busy myself to guard against troubles which may never arise. In some of my moods life seems a greivous necessity. Not so with Evariste. To him it is all a glad song."

Anarchists Should Be Declared Insane

By JOSIAH QUINCY,
Ex-Mayor
Of Boston

ANARCHY is distinguished from every other doctrine or proposed reform in that it seeks to destroy utterly, not to amend. It is an attack upon the basis of society as the world has known it since the very beginnings of civilization. It may be adapted to the conditions of some other world, but all human experience proves that it is inapplicable to those of this world. Therefore, while we certainly would not interfere with its advocacy unless experience showed that it was dangerous to law and order, I DO NOT SEE WHY WE SHOULD REFRAIN FROM DEALING WITH AN ADMITTED MENACE BECAUSE A FEW PHILOSOPHERS WOULD BE PREVENTED FROM EXPRESSING ALL THEIR THOUGHTS. Even the theoretical rights of the few must give way, if necessary, to secure the interests of the many.

The idea of dealing with the advocate of practical anarchy as an insane person, rather than as a criminal, has a good deal to recommend it. The laws defining insanity might be adapted to fit his case, and this might act as a deterrent more powerfully than a conviction for crime or misdemeanor.

Some Mistaken Mourning Customs

By Rev. Dr. BICKNELL, Pastor of the First Universalist Church, Cambridge, Mass.

HAVING no sympathy with the oft expressed idea that by some mysterious method the several parts of the body will be reunited in a purified condition and exist in another state of being, I can see no use in bestowing upon it any special attention, only such as decency, a regard for the health and welfare of the living and the natural promptings of the hearts of the immediate afflicted ones would suggest. Believing it a garment, an overcoat for the man, something necessary for the protection of the spiritual during its activity in earthly life, when its work is done it should be returned to its original elements in the easiest possible manner. It is not allied to the beyond in any way. That there is a resurrection, and by this I mean a birth of the soul—the man—with a higher life, I do not doubt. MY FAITH IN IMMORTALITY IS ALMOST KNOWLEDGE, but not for the material body. That dies, but the spiritual never dies. Death is but a change in the manner of living.

Hence, regarding our funeral services, as related to the material, I do not hesitate to invade the so called sacred customs because there is really no sacredness which should be regarded as such. We shudder and mourn when loved ones are taken. But a crushing grief is the antithesis of the confidence of Paul when he exclaimed, "To die is gain!"

Our customs are too gloomy. We can learn the lessons much more effectively in the light than in the darkness.

I have little sympathy for outward manifestation. The close drawn curtains, every ray of sunshine being excluded, the heavy draperies, the slow, measured step, the methods of constantly announcing a calamity to the bereaved, are all against the true spirit of death. Angels of comfort do not come in the dark.

All measures for preserving the body, such as embalming (unless for valid reasons and for a short time), airtight and metallic caskets or heavy wooden ones should be abolished.

THE MORE PERISHABLE THE CASKET THE BETTER. DON'T CHEAT MOTHER EARTH OUT OF HER OWN.

By Mrs. KENDAL, English Actress

WHEN the society woman adopts the stage as a profession, her example in conduct, dress and manners ought logically to be of inestimable value to her new associates. In the majority of cases, however, it is NOT so. Whether an actress views her profession as a profession sensibly or not and behaves in it sensibly or not usually marks the difference between the woman born and bred to her work and the woman who has been used to another sphere in life and has gone on the stage in later years.

By "demoralizing effect" I mean a certain degeneracy into mere trickiness of dress, speech and manner, an apparent WANT OF SELF RESPECT that may easily belie the woman's true inclinations. I know an instance of a charming woman, used to the highest and best society, who the moment she obtained an engagement with a theatrical company FLUNG OFF EVERY CONVENTION and every restraint short of actual misconduct. When remonstrated with, her astonishment was genuine and great. She explained with tears in her eyes that she thought she could be "Bohemian" with impunity.

"L'ESPERANCE" was a fair domain of 1,800 acres, which, with slaves, live stock, mills, guns and implements, had descended to Horace Oakfell from his mother at her death in 1837. She as sole heir had inherited from her father, Colonel Bixlow. A thousand acres were under fence and in culture of sugar, cotton and corn; the remainder was woodland. A yield of two hogheads of sugar and five barrels of molasses per acre by the open kettle process of reduction then in vogue and 500 pounds of lint cotton to a like area attested the prodigious fertility of the fields.

Oakfell's father endured widowhood a year and married Fidele Gaspard, a Spanish looking girl of 16, daughter of Antoine Gaspard, who, it was said, had escaped from Paris with a price on his head after the fall of Danton and who was remembered as a man of cruel aspect, taciturn and furtive, as one haunted by a terrible fear or horrible memory. He was shiftless and poor, but his daughter was humble, pious and beautiful. She was mistress of "L'Esperance" six years, ministering to her stepson as to a superior being, and on her deathbed prayerfully besought his interest and protection for her own little boy, Evariste, whom she left at the dependent age of 5 years. Mme. Fidele was universally loved and by none with greater fervor than by Horace. The fullness of his boyish affection he transferred to the half brother, now like himself motherless, and generously assumed responsibility for his welfare. The demise of their father in 1854 gave to this assumption the character and obligations of actuality.

Evariste was dark and beautiful as his mother. His figure was slight and exquisite, with hands and feet small and delicate, like a woman's. Neither the squirrel nor the swallow surpassed him in agility and gracefulness, but his manner was undemonstrative, secretive, and, avoiding playmates, he was ever content to be alone. His eyes were black, his lips thin and firm. To these sons the father had left nothing but a debt owed in Kentucky for blooded horses, which Horace speedily discharged. Evariste was portless; his brother bade him consider himself half owner of all the estate and assured him that partition should be made on his attaining majority, or as soon thereafter as he might deem it desirable, and made unstinted expenditure for his maintenance and education. The elder's fraternal love was sobered by paternal solicitude relieved of all austerity. The difference between the ages of the two was five years, Evariste being 19 when Horace was sent to the legislature.

The home was now presided over by the Widow Wyley, whose long experience as the wife of an overseer had given her a knowledge of the negro character which enabled her to rule efficiently and kindly. Thrift and neatness came naturally from her Dutch mother, as did also her passion for cows and bees. Her face was big and red, and so was her heart; her hair was white and strong, and so was her nature. Binker Wyley, her stalwart son, was the abstemious, tireless overseer, who had announced on taking charge that the lash was only for oxen, mules and dogs and to those shrewd, frugal management was due the fact that the prosperity of "L'Esperance" was second to that of no plantation in the parish of Avoyelles, with the possible exception of Baldouino's, on Bayou des Glaisses. The dwelling was a brick structure of two stories, with broad, covered verandas projecting from the second in front and rear. On the ground floor, which was tiled, were at one side of a wide hall a dining room and housekeeper's sanctum, at the other an office, library and medicine store, in which were kept considerable quantities of medicaments of approved use on large plantations. The second story contained parlor and sleeping apartments, high ceilings and spacious, separated by a hall corresponding with the one below and reached by exterior stairways piercing the verandas. The furniture was heavy, old and rich. An acre set in pecan, walnut and fig trees and inclosed by a high white fence made a shady lawn between the house and the public road along the bank of Bayou Claire. On the left were the overseer's house and plantation stores, a hundred yards farther the negro quarters, barns, stables and cattle sheds; on a bend of the bayou was the steam cotton gin and at the rear of the fields the brick sugar mill, with long, low roofed purgery and massive chimney for bagasse burning.

The warm day was closing. Oakfell sat at the western window of the office near a table on which lay written reports which had been left with him by the overseer. From a perusal of them he had turned to a volume of English poetry and read these lines:

He finds his fellow guilty of a sin
Not colored like his own and, having power
To enforce the wrong, for such a worthy cause
Dooms and devotes him as his lawful prey.

And what man, seeing this
And having human feelings, does not blush
And hang his head to think himself a man?

these thoughts when the open doorway was filled by the generous figure of Mrs. Wyley.

"Mr. Oakfell, where is Evariste to-day?" she asked. "I have not seen him since morning."

"He went to attend the races at Mansura, I believe," Oakfell replied.

"You will not, I hope," she said, settling herself comfortably in a rocker. "Think me meddlesome if I question the propriety of one so young frequenting such gatherings, where gambling, drinking, profanity and sometimes homicide are the features. I forbade them to Binker. Evariste goes to them so often." The old lady's manner evinced the sincerity of her anxiety.

"I appreciate your interest and desire you always to speak your thoughts without restraint on any subject which may concern my brother," said Oakfell. "In this instance, however, I think you need have no apprehension. Horse racing, you know, is expressly encouraged by our law, which puts betting at it on an equal footing with other contracts. It has received the countenance of our best citizens and has thus had its respectability preserved. Were such as Evariste to absent themselves the turf would soon degenerate to a mere gambling affair and contest of chicanery. So long as honor rules the track the excitement is healthful to men. I have no misgiving of Evariste. He is thoughtful and prudent beyond his years, has a perfect control over himself, which I envy him, and his spirit is too high and proud to yield to a low temptation or to be led by an unworthy example. My faith in him is perfect, and I love him as if he were my son."

"How blessed he is to have such a brother," said Mrs. Wyley, her fears for the one forgotten in her admiration of the other.

"There he is now!" exclaimed Oakfell, rising and going to the door. "Was there ever such a little man beauty as he? And he is so free from vanity that I do not believe he is at all aware of his good looks."

Evariste had alighted from his foaming horse at the gate and, having thrown the bridle to a negro boy, was walking up the bricked path to the house with the easy step and calm air of one returning from a short and leisurely stroll in a shady grove, his regular breathing betraying no sign of the hard run of 11 miles he had given the panting beast now being led to the stables. And Horace's tribute of unconsciousness of self was scarcely sustained by the faultlessly fitting suit, unfecked collar and fashionably adjusted neckscarf, the dainty shoes and carefully oiled locks resting on his shoulders in a glossy black roll. And a suspicion of daintiness might have had confirmation in the delicate perfume scattered from his handkerchief as he passed it across his brow.

"How was the sport today, my boy?" Horace asked cheerily as Evariste entered the room.

"One excellent half mile race between Quillebert's Charlotte Corday and Judge Elgee's Belle Cheney," said Evariste. "The others were only ordinary."

"How was the betting?"

"Quite brisk. The odds were in favor of Belle Cheney. I took Charlotte Corday and won $60. She came in by a neck. Leonidas Latlials backed the Elgee mare and lost heavily. Father Galotte parted with some of his tithes on the same risk. Somebody told Elgee that his jockey had been tampered with by Quillebert, and he swore he would kill them both if the charge could be proved. For a time it looked as if some blood might be let, but friends interfered, and the matter quieted down."

"Who rode Charlotte Corday?" Horace inquired.

"Quillebert's yellow boy Leon. By the way, brother," said Evariste, "Quillebert got into a boastful vein when his mare came in winner. He said he had set in to beat Belle Cheney and knew from the beginning he would do it and declared that when he made up his mind to a thing nobody in Avoyelles could overmatch him. Little F. Ferrier spoke up and asked how about you electing Estelle Latlials godmother of the bell. He said it was not you that did it. Father Galotte asserted it was you; that he had it on good authority. Quillebert was stunned. He had never suspected that you had a hand in that. He became furious and I believe was about to relieve himself of some uncomplimentary remarks about you when he caught my eye looking steadily at him and concluded to bottle his rage. But I never saw so ferocious an expression settle upon a man's countenance as that which came over Quillebert's as he turned away. I fear he is your mortal enemy from this time on. Beware of him, brother."

"He is a bad man and hurtful to the community," said Oakfell, "but he is a coward and need not be feared, only watched. I very much regret my name was mentioned in connection with the contest over the christening of the bell. It was quite contrary to my wish."

"If you had seen how delighted Estelle was when her grandfather told her what Father Galotte had said, your regret would not be so poignant."

"Did you see her? Where?"

"At Father Grhe's house. The priest insisted upon my dining there with her

SCHLEY'S MESSAGE.

Reporting Victory, That Didn't
Reach Long, Not Admitted
as Evidence.

COOL, BRAVE AND ENTHUSIASTIC

I Cannot Imagine Any onduist in Battle More Admirable," Declared
Capt. Cook—Lt. Commander Sears
Testifies—Schley's Message.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—Lieut. Commander James H. Sears, who was Admiral Schley's flag lieutenant during the Spanish war, testified in the Schley inquiry. He gave a detailed account of the entire Cuban campaign, including the brief siege of Cienfuegos, the retrograde movement of the flying squadron in search of coal, the blockade of Santiago, the reconnaissance of the Santiago shore batteries and the bombardment of the Cristobal Colon, May 31, and the battle off Santiago, July 3, when Cervera's fleet was destroyed. He placed the distance out of the blockading line at Cienfuegos at from one to four miles and at Santiago at from three to six miles. He expressed the opinion that in the battle of July 3 it had been the Viscaya's intention to ram the Brooklyn.

Mr. Raynor sought to secure the introduction of a brief report of the battle of July 3, which Commodore Schley prepared for transmission to the secretary of the navy. It was stated that Commander Sears had taken this dispatch ashore to be cabled to the secretary, but that it never had reached that official. The dispatch was ruled out on the ground that as it was not received it was not an official communication. It was not read in the court room, but the following is a copy of it:

Copy of Schley's Message.

Washington, D. C.
"The Secretary of the Navy,
"Spanish squadron came out of Santiago harbor this morning, July 3, at 9:30, and were all captured or destroyed in a running fight to the westward of about 3 and one-half hours. Very few casualties in our fleet; Ellis, chief yeoman, killed, and one man wounded on the Brooklyn. Reports from other ships not in yet. The commander-in-chief now superintending transfer of prisoners from the Cristobal Colon, which surrendered to the Brooklyn and Oregon at 1:15 p. m. About 1,000 prisoners in all, including Spanish admiral. Victory complete, details later.

"Schley."
Capt. Cook was recalled during the day, and in response to a question by Capt. Lemly, made an additional statement concerning the retrograde movement of the flying squadron, May 26 to May 28. He also said in answer to a question by the court that Commodore Schley, during the battle of July 3, was "cool, brave and enthusiastic. I cannot imagine any conduct in battle more admirable."

MARKET PROFESSIONAL

An Arch Manipulator Tried to Lead
Speculators on Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 16.—The movement of prices in Tuesday's stock market lacked clearness and coherency at all times. Opening weakness gave way to a period of strength which was met by profit taking, and the resulting reaction was vigorously contested by aggressive manipulation of Pennsylvania. The whole market finally gave way to weakness and closed at a level lower than Monday, net losses reaching a point or over in some of the leading prominent stocks.

The only aggressive force for a rise in the market was what might be called the formal invitation issued by the arch manipulator in the street to the public to follow his leadership in speculation for the rise with a suggestive glance towards Southern Pacific. This invitation made its appearance in circular form Tuesday with an appropriate demonstration in the market to herald it. As the author has been associated in the Wall street mind with the organized support of the United States steel stocks, those stocks shared in Monday's demonstration, but the sequence Tuesday was less convincing. Southern Pacific, indeed, started off with a flurry, and St. Paul made a preliminary advance of 1/4. Other stocks to respond were few and the obvious fact that heavy realizing was going on in the Pacific group of stocks and St. Paul served still further to disincite the public to accept the invitation to speculate. A movement in Pennsylvania which developed later and which carried the stock up 2 points was nominally based upon the heavy traffic movement over the company's lines, but the remembrance of old associations of the author of the invitation referred to, with market movements of this stock aroused a suspicion of a possible connection on his part with the movement. The buying was congested, but so also was the selling, one brokerage house being credited with sales of 20,000 shares. The last price of the stock showed only a fractional remnant of the extreme advance. The renewed heavy demand for currency from the cotton centers was a disturbing factor in the late trading. There was a somewhat feverish speculation in Amalgamated Copper, which lifted the stock over a point, then drove it down 3 points and left it with a net loss of 1/2.

Railroad bonds were quite active and generally firm. Total sales, par value, $2,710,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

AT THE POLLS.

Ohio Never Democratic, But
by Republican Apathy.

SOME FACTS OF STATE HISTORY.

Shall the Policies of the Martyred
McKinley Be Endorsed at the Polls, or Shall President Roosevelt Be Rebuffed?

In 1899, the last time that the Democrats in Ohio elected their candidate for governor, giving about 11,000 plurality for James E. Campbell over Joseph B. Foraker, 47,959 Republicans, who had voted the year before for President Harrison and Secretary of State Ryan, failed to turn out at that election.

In 1892, when the Democrats elected one presidential elector upon the state ticket in Ohio, and President Harrison, on the official count, led Grover Cleveland by only 1,672 votes, the mischief was done by 11,000 Republicans, who had been at the polls for Harrison four years before, failing to vote for his reelection. They simply staid at home; and it was such Republicans all over the country who turned the control of affairs over to President Cleveland and the Democratic congress, and caused the panic of 1893, the hard times that followed it, and mischief of every sort.

In 1896, when President McKinley was elected for the first time, his vote in Ohio was nearly 100,000 more than Governor Bushnell received the year before; but Bryan's vote in Ohio that year was 140,000 more than was given Governor Campbell in 1895, and about 200,000 more than was given the Democratic state ticket in 1894.

In the three annual elections after President McKinley was first elected the average shortage in the Republican vote of Ohio, as compared with the vote for him for president, was about 110,000 at each of the elections.

Should we go back of these results in the last dozen years, the same shortage in Republican votes at every election for governor in the year succeeding a presidential election will be found. Governor Foster's vote in 1881, for instance, was 63,000 short of the vote for Garfield for president in 1880. That year was the most like the present one in its circumstances; in fact, the parallel is to be found in so many particulars that it should commend itself to every earnest Republican. Governor Foster was re-elected in 1881, but there was not one lot of thanks due then to any stay-at-home Republican.

TOLD IN EAST LIVERPOOL

It's the Evidence of East Liverpool
People Published in East Liverpool
Papers That Has Made Such a
Reputation for Dr. A. W.
Chase's Nerve Pills.

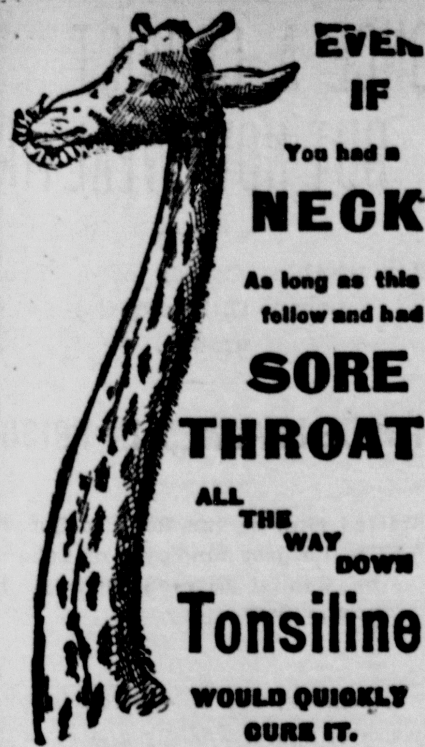

Standing clear and distinct, marking the difference, the superior merit, the adaptability to present day ailments is the volume of local testimony for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. It's so different to the ordinary remedies referring to cures made at distant points, which is hard to verify. There is a reason for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills commanding home evidence wherever they are known—it is their wonderful influence in bringing up the standard of Nerve Force. Mrs. C. L. Yager, of No. 152 Broadway, East Liverpool, O., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's medicines are all good. I got them at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, as I was nervous, run down, felt miserable and the heart action was weak and irregular. The medicine made me strong and my nerves steady. The heart action regular and strong, and altogether a different person, as I feel well and hearty again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

ican, nor will there be any thanks due this year to any Republican who fails to do his full duty in person at the polls.

In truth, in the present case there is a far greater duty upon the part of the Republicans of Ohio than there was twenty years ago. There might have been some shadow of excuse at that time for an unfounded surmise that President Arthur might have different views upon party matters from those of President Garfield. But in the present case President Roosevelt stands publicly pledged not only by his most solemn utterance, but by all the circumstances possible, to enter into the matter, to carry forward the work of President McKinley in the way that it has been begun.

Under these conditions, President McKinley's native state, and particularly every Republican in this state who makes the least profession of friendship and fealty to McKinley (and there is not a man among all in our ranks without such profession in absolute sincerity) owes it to his own sense of honor and to his own reverence for the memory of our president, martyred for his duty to the republic, to send such a message of comfort and support, by his personal vote and influence, to President McKinley's friend and constitutional successor, as shall assure President Roosevelt and the entire world that McKinley's state is with him and for him and will stand by him. Every stay-at-home in the Republican ranks on the 5th of November will be recreant to that most solemn duty.

M'LEAN FOR SENATOR.

Hamilton County Convention Bossed
by His Hired Man Bernard.

Shall the state of Ohio be bossed by Boss Bernard in the way that he bossed the Hamilton county Democratic convention? That hired man for John R. McLean was complete master of the 360 delegates in that convention, having practically named all of them, so that they had nothing left to do but nominate the candidates he had selected beforehand.

With three senators and 10 representatives to be chosen by Hamilton county, the Democratic dependence for the legislature is upon carrying Cincinnati and electing that delegation. But the Hamilton county members in that event will hold the balance of power in both houses; and, as they owe their selection to Bernard, that worthy will tell them what to do. They are nominally under instructions for C. W. Baker for United States senator, but if John R. McLean wants their vote, he will look to his man Bernard to find a way to deliver the goods.

This is the evident situation to be met by the voters of Ohio by such overwhelming majorities for senators and representatives, who will re-elect Senator Foraker and support President Roosevelt, that neither Bernard nor McLean will be able to accomplish anything.

The Ohio voter recognizes the clean, straight administration of Governor Nash, and has already made up his mind what he will do this fall.

SCHLEY'S MESSAGE.

Reporting Victory, That Didn't
Reach Long, Not Admitted
as Evidence.

COOL, BRAVE AND ENTHUSIASTIC

I Cannot Imagine Any ondust in Battle More Admirable," Declared
Capt. Cook—Lt. Commander Sears
Testifies—Schley's Message.

Washington, D. C., Oct. 16.—Lieut. Commander James H. Sears, who was Admiral Schley's flag lieutenant during the Spanish war, testified in the Schley inquiry. He gave a detailed account of the entire Cuban campaign, including the brief siege of Cienfuegos, the retrograde movement of the flying squadron in search of coal, the blockade of Santiago, the reconnaissance of the Santiago shore batteries and the bombardment of the Cristobal Colon, May 31, and the battle off Santiago, July 3, when Cervera's fleet was destroyed. He placed the distance out of the blockading line at Cienfuegos at from one to four miles and at Santiago at from three to six miles. He expressed the opinion that in the battle of July 3 it had been the Viscaya's intention to ram the Brooklyn.

Mr. Raynor sought to secure the introduction of a brief report of the battle of July 3, which Commodore Schley prepared for transmission to the secretary of the navy. It was stated that Commander Sears had taken this dispatch ashore to be cabled to the secretary, but that it never had reached that official. The dispatch was ruled out on the ground that it was not received in a formal official communication. It was not read in the court room, but the following is a copy of it:

Copy of Schley's Message.

Washington, D. C.
"The Secretary of the Navy,
"Spanish squadron came out of Santiago harbor this morning, July 3, at 9:30, and were all captured or destroyed in a running fight to the westward of about 3 and one-half hours. Very few casualties in our fleet; Ellis, chief yeoman, killed, and one man wounded on the Brooklyn. Reports from other ships not in yet. The commander-in-chief now superintending transfer of prisoners from the Cristobal Colon, which surrendered to the Brooklyn and Oregon at 1:15 p. m. About 1,000 prisoners in all, including Spanish admiral. Victory complete, details later.

"Schley."
Capt. Cook was recalled during the day, and in response to a question by Capt. Lemly, made an additional statement concerning the retrograde movement of the flying squadron, May 26 to May 28. He also said in answer to a question by the court that Commodore Schley, during the battle of July 3, was "cool, brave and enthusiastic. I cannot imagine any conduct in battle more admirable."

MARKET PROFESSIONAL

Speculators on Tuesday.

New York, Oct. 16.—The movement of prices in Tuesday's stock market lacked clearness and coherency at all times. Opening weakness gave way to a period of strength which was met by profit taking, and the resulting reaction was vigorously contested by aggressive manipulation of Pennsylvania. The whole market finally gave way to weakness and closed at a level lower than Monday, net losses reaching a point or over in some of the leading prominent stocks.

The only aggressive force for a rise in the market was what might be called the formal invitation issued by the arch manipulator in the street to the public to follow his leadership in speculation for the rise with a suggestive glance towards Southern Pacific as an available market leader. This invitation made its appearance in circular form Tuesday with an appropriate demonstration in the market to herald it. As the author has been associated in the Wall street mind with the organized support of the United States Steel stocks, those stocks shared in Monday's demonstration, but the sequence Tuesday was less convincing. Southern Pacific, indeed, started off with a flurry, and St. Paul made a preliminary advance of 1 1/4. Other stocks to respond were few and the obvious fact that heavy realizing was going on in the Pacific group of stocks and St. Paul served still further to disincite the public to accept the invitation to speculate.

A movement in Pennsylvania which developed later and which carried the stock up 2 points was nominally based upon the heavy traffic movement over the company's lines, but the remembrance of old associations of the author of the invitation referred to, with market movements of this stock aroused a suspicion of a possible connection on his part with the movement. The buying was congested, but so also was the selling, one brokerage house being credited with sales of 20,000 shares. The last price of the stock showed only a fractional remnant of the extreme advance. The renewed heavy demand for currency from the cotton centers was a disturbing factor in the late trading. There was a somewhat feverish speculation in Amalgamated Copper, which lifted the stock over a point, then drove it down 3 points and left it with a net loss of 1/2.

Railroad bonds were quite active and generally firm. Total sales, par value, $2,710,000. United States bonds were all unchanged on the last call.

AT THE POLLS.

Ohio Never Democratic, But
by Republican Apatay.

SOME FACTS OF STATE HISTORY.

McKinley Be Endorsed at the Polls,
or Shall President Roosevelt Be Rebuffed?

In 1899, the last time that the Democrats in Ohio elected their candidate for governor, giving about 1,000 plurality for James E. Campbell over Joseph B. Foraker, 47,959 Republicans, who had voted the year before for President Harrison and Secretary of State Ryan, failed to turn out at that election.

In 1892, when the Democrats elected one presidential elector upon the state ticket in Ohio, and President Harrison, on the official card, led Grover Cleveland by only 1,072 votes, the mischief was done by 11,000 Republicans, who had been at the polls for Harrison four years before, failing to vote for his reelection. They simply staid at home; and it was such Republicans all over the country who turned the control of affairs over to President Cleveland and the Democratic congress, and caused the panic of 1893, the hard times that followed it, and mischief of every sort.

In 1896, when President McKinley was elected for the first time, his vote in Ohio was nearly 100,000 more than Governor Bushnell received the year before; but Bryan's vote in Ohio that year was 140,000 more than was given Governor Campbell in 1895, and about 200,000 more than was given the Democratic state ticket in 1894.

In the three annual elections after President McKinley was first elected the average shortage in the Republican vote of Ohio, as compared with the vote for him for president, was about 110,000 at each of the elections.

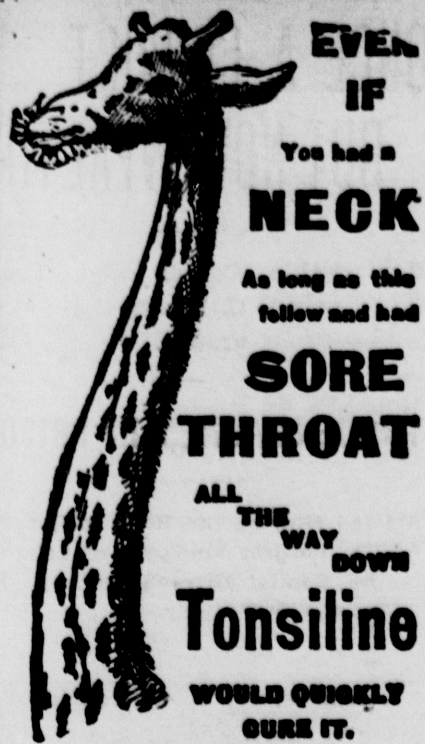

Should we go back of these results in the last dozen years, the same shortage in Republican votes at every election for governor in the year succeeding a presidential election will be found. Governor Foster's vote in 1881, for instance, was 63,000 short of the vote for Garfield for president in 1880. That year was the most like the present one in its circumstances; in fact, the parallel is to be found in so many particulars that it should commend itself to every earnest Republican. Governor Foster was re-elected in 1881, but there was not one lot of thanks due then to any stay-at-home Republican.

It's the Evidence of East Liverpool
People Published in East Liverpool
Papers That Has Made Such a
Reputation for Dr. A. W.
Chase's Nerve Pills.

Standing clear and distinct, marking the difference, the superior merit, the adaptability to present day ailments is the volume of local testimony for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills. It's so different to the ordinary remedies referring to cures made at distant points, which is hard to verify. There is a reason for Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills commanding home evidence wherever they are known—it is their wonderful influence in bringing up the standard of Nerve Force. Mrs. C. L. Yager, of No. 152 Broadway, East Liverpool, O., says: "Dr. A. W. Chase's medicines are all good. I got them at Larkins' drug store, corner Sixth and East Market streets, as I was nervous, run down, felt miserable and the heart action was weak and irregular. The medicine made me strong and my nerves steady. The heart action regular and strong, and altogether a different person, as I feel well and hearty again."

Dr. A. W. Chase's Nerve Pills are sold at 50 cents a box at dealers, or Dr. A. W. Chase Medicine company, Buffalo, N. Y. See that portrait and signature of A. W. Chase, M. D., are on every package.

M'LEAN FOR SENATOR.

by His Hired Man Bernard.

Shall the state of Ohio be bossed by Boss Bernard in the way that he bossed the Hamilton county Democratic convention? That hired man for John R. McLean was complete master of the 360 delegates in that convention, having practically named all of them, so that they had nothing left to do but nominate the candidates he had selected beforehand.

With three senators and 10 representatives to be chosen by Hamilton county, the Democratic dependence for the legislature is upon carrying Cincinnati and electing that delegation. But the Hamilton county members in that event will hold the balance of power in both houses; and, as they owe their selection to Bernard, that worthy will tell them what to do. They are nominally under instructions for C. W. Baker for United States senator, but if John R. McLean wants their vote, he will look to his man Bernard to find a way to deliver the goods.

This is the evident situation to be met by the voters of Ohio by such overwhelming majorities for senators and representatives, who will re-elect Senator Foraker and support President Roosevelt, that neither Bernard nor McLean will be able to accomplish anything.

The Ohio voter recognizes the clean, straight administration of Governor Nash, and has already made up his mind what he will do this fall.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Arrived in Town—The household goods of W. C. Brown, of Dayton, and Ettie Wise, of Bellaire, were received at the freight station yesterday.

Trades Council Meeting—Trades Council is to hold its regular meeting tonight. As business of importance is to be considered, the attendance will doubtless be large.

Issues a Challenge—The East Liverpool Buckeye association football team, Thomas H. Cartwright, manager, has challenged Youngstown, Niles, New Castle and other towns to a contest.

Slowly Improving—Charles Bowers, of the West End, who has been ill with lead colic for several weeks, is slowly improving. He is a dipper and for some time it was thought he could not recover.

Will Hold Rummage Sale—Members of St. Stephen's church are making preparations to hold a rummage sale some time next month. The proceeds will be turned over to the building fund of the church.

Gaston Farm Sold—The property known as the Ephraim Gaston farm, on the California Hollow road, containing 68 acres, has been sold by Geo. H. Owen & Co. to O. C. Vodrey. Consideration private.

Condition More Encouraging—Col. W. C. Watson and his wife went to Pittsburgh yesterday to see their son Fletcher, who is in the Southside hospital. They found him better than was expected. An operation was performed on Monday and a large quantity of pus removed. The patient's condition yesterday was considered encouraging.

Hibernians' Meeting—Members of Ohio lodge, No. 3, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held a regular meeting last night at their hall in the Fowler hall. All of the Hibernians felt much gratification over the success of Sunday's initiation rites, when 25 candidates were admitted to the order. Reports were made and other business transacted that showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition.

Y. M. C. A. Ladies to Entertain—The ladies who wore the blue ribbon in the ladies' auxiliary contest which recently closed, will entertain their successful competitors, the reds, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. hall. Invitations are being sent to all new members, as far as possible. Some may not get notices on account of lack of address, but this will serve as an invitation.

Judge Robinson to Preside.
Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Judge George F. Robinson, of Ravenna, will preside in common pleas court next week.

BULGER'S PHARMACY

ONCE A CONVICT
BUT NOW WEALTHY

Remarkable Career of a Prosperous Citizen of Columbus.

Started Him on the Road to Success. The Largest Employer of Labor in the Capital City—Singularity Romantic Story.

Columbus, Oct. 16.—A convict at 18 years of age, a wealthy and respected citizen before he is 40, the largest employer of labor in the city of Columbus, whose wealth ranges near the million mark. Such is, in short, the true history of Robert F. Wolfe.

Forced out into the world at 13 years of age, not alone to earn his own living, but to procure some of the comforts of life for his dearly beloved mother, he became an inmate of the Jeffersonville prison, in Indiana. Today he is the head of the Wolfe Bros. Shoe Manufacturing company, in this city, which is rated by Bradstreet at over half a million. His personal fortune is great. Much of it has been used in the interest of his employees. He was instrumental in inaugurating a profit-sharing system in his factory, which yearly divides large sums over and above their wages among the 2,000 employees.

Near the little town of Cataract, Ind., Wolfe, at the age of 17 years, obtained employment. The town contained a store and a postoffice, of which Wolfe's uncle was master. There existed a tie of the bitterest hatred between the postmaster and the storekeeper.

One night on his way to his uncle's home, a casual traveler told him of a scandal which had stirred the little village of Cataract to its depths. The storekeeper had attacked the character of his pretty 16-year-old cousin in the vilest manner. The village had waited in pleased expectation for her father to defend his daughter's character against her traducer, but the postmaster had made no sign.

Wolfe procured a revolver and went at once to the store. In the trouble that followed he was kicked and beaten into insensibility, and was subsequently arrested and cast into jail at Spencer. One night, Deputy Sheriff Garrard brought him his supper. Wolfe overpowered him and attempted to escape, but was intercepted. The grand jury brought in a true bill against him, charging him with assault with intent to kill. The prime cause of his being in jail, the affair at Cataract, was ignored. The prosecuting attorney offered to procure him a light sentence if he would plead guilty. Not knowing what the ultimate sentence might be, without money or friends, he accepted, and the next week was registered at Jeffersonville prison.

His history there was that of any well-behaved convict. Because of his knowledge of shoemaking he was placed in the shoe manufacturing department, which was at that time an experiment in the prison, as was the employment of convicts in manufacturing everywhere. Here he discovered a mechanical bent, and invented machines which are still in use. He left the prison gates resolved to rise out of the awful night, into which the world thrusts the victims of the penal code. Armed with his prison-gained knowledge of manufacturing shoes by machinery, he came to Columbus and began the repairing of shoes. Soon, in a small way, he began the manufacture. He prospered, and the rest of his career is an open book. The old mother, for whom he toiled as a boy, realizes the luxury he then promised her.

HOME AFFAIRS.

Brief Notes of a Personal Nature And of Matters About Town.

Arrived in Town—The household goods of W. C. Brown, of Dayton, and Ettie Wise, of Bellaire, were received at the freight station yesterday.

Trades Council Meeting—The Trades Council is to hold its regular meeting tonight. As business of importance is to be considered, the attendance will doubtless be large.

Issues a Challenge—The East Liverpool Buckeye association football team, Thomas H. Cartwright, manager, has challenged Youngstown, Niles, New Castle and other towns to a contest.

Slowly Improving—Charles Bowers, of the West End, who has been ill with lead colic for several weeks, is slowly improving. He is a dipper and for some time it was thought he could not recover.

Will Hold Rummage Sale—Members of St. Stephen's church are making preparations to hold a rummage sale some time next month. The proceeds will be turned over to the building fund of the church.

Gaston Farm Sold—The property known as the Ephraim Gaston farm, on the California Hollow road, containing 68 acres, has been sold by Geo. H. Owen & Co. to O. C. Vodrey. Consideration private.

Condition More Encouraging—Col. W. C. Watson and his wife went to Pittsburgh yesterday to see their son Fletcher, who is in the Southside hospital. They found him better than was expected. An operation was performed on Monday and a large quantity of pus removed. The patient's condition yesterday was considered encouraging.

Hibernians' Meeting—Members of Ohio lodge, No. 3, Ancient Order of Hibernians, held a regular meeting last night at their hall in the Fowler hall. All of the Hibernians felt much gratification over the success of Sunday's initiation rites, when 25 candidates were admitted to the order. Reports were made and other business transacted that showed the lodge to be in a flourishing condition.

Y. M. C. A. Ladies to Entertain—The ladies who wore the blue ribbon in the ladies' auxiliary contest which recently closed, will entertain their successful competitors, the reds, tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. hall. Invitations are being sent to all new members, as far as possible. Some may not get notices on account of lack of address, but this will serve as an invitation.

Judge Robinson to Preside. Lisbon, Oct. 16.—(Special)—Judge George F. Robinson, of Ravenna, will preside in common pleas court next week.

ONCE A CONVICT BUT NOW WEALTHY

Remarkable Career of a Prosperous Citizen of Columbus.

Started Him on the Road to Success. The Largest Employer of Labor in the Capital City—Singularly Romantic Story.

Columbus, Oct. 16.—A convict at 15 years of age, a wealthy and respected citizen before he is 40, the largest employer of labor in the city of Columbus, whose wealth ranges near the million mark. Such is, in short, the true history of Robert F. Wolfe.

Forced out into the world at 13 years of age, not alone to earn his own living, but to procure some of the comforts of life for his dearly beloved mother, he became an inmate of the Jeffersonville prison, in Indiana. Today he is the head of the Wolfe Bros.' Shoe Manufacturing company, in this city, which is rated by Bradstreet at over half a million. His personal fortune is great. Much of it has been used in the interest of his employees. He was instrumental in inaugurating a profit-sharing system in his factory, which yearly divides large sums over and above their wages among the 2,000 employees.

Near the little town of Cataract, Ind., Wolfe, at the age of 17 years, obtained employment. The town contained a store and a postoffice, of which Wolfe's uncle was master. There existed a tie of the bitterest hatred between the postmaster and the storekeeper.

One night on his way to his uncle's home, a casual traveler told him of a scandal which had stirred the little village of Cataract to its depths. The storekeeper had attacked the character of his pretty 16-year-old cousin in the vilest manner. The village had waited in pleased expectation for her father to defend his daughter's character against her traducer, but the postmaster had made no sign.

Wolfe procured a revolver and went at once to the store. In the trouble that followed he was kicked and beaten into insensibility, and was subsequently arrested and cast into jail at Spencer. One night, Deputy Sheriff Jarrard brought him his supper. Wolfe overpowered him and attempted to escape, but was intercepted. The grand jury brought in a true bill against him, charging him with assault with intent to kill. The prime cause of his being in jail, the affair at Cataract, was ignored. The prosecuting attorney offered to procure him a light sentence if he would plead guilty. Not knowing what the ultimate sentence might be, without money or friends, he accepted, and the next week was registered at Jeffersonville prison.

His history there was that of any well-behaved convict. Because of his knowledge of shoemaking he was placed in the shoe manufacturing department, which was at that time an experiment in the prison, as was the employment of convicts in manufacturing everywhere. Here he discovered a mechanical bent, and invented machines which are still in use. He left the prison gates resolved to rise out of the awful night, into which the world thrusts the victims of the penal code. Armed with his prison-gained knowledge of manufacturing shoes by machinery, he came to Columbus and began the repairing of shoes. Soon, in a small way, he began the manufacture. He prospered, and the rest of his career is an open book. The old mother, for whom he toiled as a boy, realizes the luxury he then promised her.
